Desperate Gamble By Hitler

Nazi Winter Attack On Caucasus Expected

LONDON (CP)—Hitler will order a winter assault on the Caucasus even though it might engage his war-weary eastern armies with a large wing of Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell's India command, a London military observer forecast today.

It is almost certain, the observer said, that the battle of empire between Germany and Britain will be fought in or south of the Caucasus, with Britons engaged on a common front with their Russian allies.

DESPERATE NEED
The Germans need a quick decision and will accept the hazards of weather, terrain and extended supply lines to push ahead immediately rather than take the alternative risks of digging in for the winter with the idea of resuming operations against the reorganized and revitalized Soviet armies in the spring, it was said.

They would hope to seize control of Russian oil, pipelines, timber and agricultural supplies from the Caucasus. (How much would survive battle damage and Russian sabotage is problematical.)

Cutting of the Persian Gulf, Iran-Caspian Sea route of British-United States supplies for Russia would be another aim.

SERIES OF BATTLES
If Hitler's armies could gain possession of the Caucasus by spring, the commentator said, battles to decide the fate of Iraq, Iran, Palestine, Syria, Egypt and ultimately India would be fought. They already are at its front, before the Don River port of Rostov, and threatening a flank through the drive into the Crimea.

Britain, however, is reported to be concentrating men and materials in northern Iran, and British and Dominion troops are said to be eager for action in which they could try out new mobile equipment, planes and other supplies and seek to erase the setbacks of Dunkerque, Greece and Crete.

BRITISH OFFENSIVE
It would be no less logical, the observer said, for the reinforced British divisions in north Africa to launch a winter offensive from Egyptian bases against German-Italian concentrations in Libya.

The German positions in Libya and southern Russia were likened here to gigantic pincers—one claw aimed east and the other south—against British holdings from Africa to India.

The Russians apparently are putting their main strength into the defence of Moscow in an attempt to prevent a German prestige victory there. Hence, the observer said, Hitler is expected merely to hold the capital under siege.

TO INVESTIGATE VOTERS' LIST

VANCOUVER (CP)—George M. Phillips, registrar-general of voters, said today that after November 12, when votes in the recent provincial general election are recounted, "we will welcome any inquiries or investigation" into charges of discrepancies in the voters' list in Vancouver Centre.

His comment was made in response to charges telegraphed by George H. Andrews, Vancouver businessman, to Peter Walker, deputy provincial secretary, that the list contained names of "dozens not living in Vancouver Centre, dozens with no addresses and other grave discrepancies." Andrews said that in an exhaustive check of the list he had found "60 or 70" cases of error, including persons outside the division being registered as residents and other persons registered twice.

Herbert Gargrave, C.C.F. provincial secretary and member-elect of the Legislature for MacKenzie, said evidence of discrepancies in the list had been brought to the attention of the

La Guardia Gets 3rd Term

With Wendell L. Willkie, left, Mayor La Guardia was joining in an impromptu quartette when this picture was taken. It was at a rally in Madison Square Garden.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fiorello La Guardia won his third term, too. New York's bustling mayor came from behind in Tuesday's balloting to defeat William O'Dwyer, Democratic nominee, and assure himself of another four years tenure at the controls of the largest city in the United States.

La Guardia, who campaigned for President Roosevelt last year, had the President's support for his own third-term bid. O'Dwyer was backed by such prominent Democrats as Edward J. Flynn, national party chairman, and James A. Farley, state chairman. As the nominee of four political parties, La Guardia collected support from the members of the Republican, American Labor, City Fusion and United City organizations.

But his plurality of some 133,000 was the smallest in his three successful campaigns. Although the New York voting stirred up the most general interest, several other elections yesterday commanded regional attention.

Virginia Democrats rolled up a landslide majority for their nominee for governor, former representative Colgate W. Darden of Norfolk. In Cleveland Democrats broke an eight-year Republican hold on city hall by electing Frank J. Lausche as mayor.

In Detroit incumbent Edward J. Jeffries defeated Joseph A. Gillis for mayor in nonpartisan balloting.

In Akron, O., Democrat George J. Harter, a blind member of the State Legislature, unseated Republican Lee D. Schroy as mayor. Maurice J. Tobin was re-elected mayor of Boston, defeating James M. Curley. Both are registered Democrats.

Canada-U.S. Join Defence Production

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie-King announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that, on the recommendation of the joint defence economic committees of the United States and Canada, the two countries have agreed to establish a joint defence production committee.

The Prime Minister said the purpose of the new committee was to co-ordinate "most effectively the capacities of the two countries for the production of defence material."

The resolution of the joint economic committees drew attention to the fact the two countries had established joint bodies in the field of military strategy, the field of primary materials, and in the field of general economic relations, but had established no machinery for the specific purpose of "most effectively co-ordinating" defence production capacity.

Joint bodies already set up are the joint defence board, the joint economic committee and the joint materials co-ordinating committee.

Mr. King said the arrangements for creation of the new committee were made prior to his visit last weekend with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park.

It was not from that meeting that the new committee arose. G. K. Sheila, deputy minister of the department of munitions and supply, heads the Canadian group. Other Canadian members: J. R. Donald, director-general, chemicals and explosives branch, department of munitions and supply; H. J. Carmichael, director-general, munitions production branch, department of munitions and supply; R. P. Bell, director-general, aircraft production branch, department of munitions and supply; H. R. MacMillan, president, Wartime Merchant Shipping Ltd., and Walter Gordon, department of finance.

Milo Perkins, executive director of the economic defence board of the United States, was named chairman of the American group.

Youths Accused of Obstructing Cars

Bruce E. Bewell and George W. Beck were charged in City Police Court today with placing explosives on the tracks of the B.C. Electric Railway Company on October 8.

Beck and Terence H. Butler were also charged that on October 9 they obstructed street car tracks with a bench.

John L. Clay appeared for Bewell and Butler and on both charges reserved election for trial and pleas. They were remanded until Thursday.

Bewell and Butler were remanded to Thursday also on a joint charge of stealing chemical equipment under $25 value from Victoria High School. They pleaded guilty.

Mr. Clay asked the boys be given a suspended sentence in view of the fact they were keenly interested in chemistry and not having money to buy equipment, had stolen from the school without realizing the seriousness of the offense.

Beck who was charged jointly with Robert McMahon of Tacoma, Wash., on Monday with stealing a hearse, was charged today with stealing a car belonging to Sylvester's U-Drive Limited. He was remanded until Friday.

Corvette Dedicated

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—

Another Canadian corvette, constructed at a Lake Superior port, and destined to play its part in the Battle of the Atlantic, was dedicated today by the two leaders of Canada's sea forces—the navy minister, Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, and Rear Admiral Percy Nelles, chief of the naval staff.

The ceremony, staged after the arrival of the corvette from Toronto with the two naval chiefs aboard, was attended by thousands of residents of Oakville and district, who gathered to witness the christening of the ship in the name of this Lake Ontario town.

Patricia Bay Flier Loses Brother Overseas

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—Word has been received here from the Department of National Defence saying P.O. Paul Snyder, previously reported as missing, now is believed to have been killed on an operational flight over German-occupied territory, June 12. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Snyder of Waterloo, P.O. Snyder was one of Canada's outstanding badminton players. He teamed with his brother Jim to win the Canadian men's doubles badminton championship in 1940 at Winnipeg. Jim, who is also a pilot officer in the R.C.A.F., now is stationed at Patricia Bay, B.C.

LISBON (AP)—Germany has given full satisfaction, including a ship of about equal tonnage, and presented apologies to Portugal for the sinking of the Portuguese freighter Corte Real while it was en route to the United States. The German ship has been lying idle at anchor at Port Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, since the war began. The 2,044-ton Corte Real was torpedoed off Portugal by a German submarine October 12. All passengers and crew reached shore.

CAIRO (AP)—Two meatless days a week have been ordered for Egypt under martial law to conserve the nation's livestock which, without imports to counterbalance increased consumption, has showed signs of depletion. No meat, poultry or game may be slaughtered or sold on Mondays or Thursdays. On other days restaurants will be allowed to serve only one kind of meat at each meal.

Queen Runs Short Of Coupons

LONDON (CP)—The Queen is running low on clothing purchase coupons.

BENES PREDICTS AXIS COLLAPSE

EDINBURGH, Scotland (CP)—Eduard Benes, president of the Czech government in London, predicted today a "general offensive of the Allies" would cause a collapse in Axis leadership.

"People do not sufficiently appreciate the extent of the present internal disintegration in Germany, or the fact that the end may come very suddenly," Dr. Benes said in a lecture at Edinburgh University.

"This may not happen without a military victory, but the war in Russia seems to be decisive. The attack on Russia was suicidal for Germany. Events next spring may make that evident."

"Italy also is disintegrating. Intensive military effort by the Allies in the Mediterranean area would be another factor in securing victory."

BRITAIN STOPS ALL VICHY SHIPS

LONDON (CP)—A spokesman for the Ministry of Economic Warfare said today 39 French ships, totaling 164,000 tons, had been intercepted on various sea routes this year, in addition to the five ships halted in the Indian Ocean off the South African coast, Sunday.

Constant attempts to run the British blockade had been made by French ships since September, and the Vichy government had tried to develop the route from Indo-China, via Madagascar.

The spokesman said the total tonnage of five ships recently seized off South Africa was more than 39,000 tons, which was not a small matter "either for the Vichy government or their German masters."

Replying to any suggestion Britain was not entitled to intercept such ships, the spokesman said they were sailing into a navicert area, so Britain merely was applying the policy she had consistently followed and, secondly, the ships had resisted the lawful process of visit and search.

He said Britain could make no distinction for blockade purposes between occupied and unoccupied France. The Axis purchasing commission at Marseilles was requisitioning up to 80 per cent of incoming cargoes.

B.C. 2nd Highest In War Savings

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia is second only to Ontario in the war savings for war weapons campaign, E. R. Hanna, assistant general secretary of the national committee of war savings, Ottawa, said here today shortly after his arrival by plane.

British Columbia's per capita investment is $10.07, compared with $11.29 in Ontario, Mr. Hanna said. At the end of October, British Columbia's investment was $8,834,000, of which $5,337,000 had been put up this year.

"I cannot speak too highly of the efficiency, enterprise and imagination of the men behind British Columbia's campaign," Mr. Hanna said. He declared the campaign in the Dominion as a whole was "going very well."

Balbo Rescued British Troops

TORONTO (CP)—Air Commodore Raymond Collishaw is quoted by the Toronto Star in a newspaper story as saying Italian Air Marshal Italo Balbo was shot down by anti-aircraft fire over Tobruk "after rescuing some British troops."

Air Commodore Collishaw, who returned to Canada last week to take up an undisclosed post, had charge of all British air operations during General Wavell's sweep in Libya.

(Reports have circulated that Premier Mussolini had Balbo betrayed into an ambush and shot down.)

Air Commodore Collishaw's story follows:

"Far out in the desert some of our British armored car men were lost and dying of thirst and starvation. There were not many of these, but they were in a terrible condition. Balbo... heard of their plight and got into a bombing plane, took an escort of two fighters and personally flew to the rescue of these British soldiers. Having picked them up, he flew the troops to an Italian hospital, then started back to Tobruk, his headquarters."

KILLED BY ITALIANS

"Balbo was alone in the bomber at the time, the two escorting fighters being on his flanks. At the moment when he came back over Tobruk our forces opened a bombing attack on the town, a queer coincidence. Our men were bombing from 20,000 feet and Balbo flew in at 2,000 feet. Anti-aircraft batteries on shore were going full-out, but not very effectively. However, when Balbo came over, an Italian cruiser in the harbor, one which we later sank and whose hull is still being used by our men, opened fire and struck the marshal's plane with a direct hit. To add to the coincidence of the whole thing is the fact that some of our photographers had their lens on the marshal's plane at the very moment it was struck."

"I had the picture of Balbo's plane cracking up and carried it for several months."

Air Commodore Collishaw was quoted as saying Balbo "was really a first-class chap, one any body would be pleased to know, and I'm glad of a chance to clear this business up."

In the days before man needed timber, termites served a useful purpose on earth by breaking down dead wood tissues and restoring them to the soil.

Day in Ottawa

OTTAWA. War Services Minister Thorson, in the House of Commons, said his department had a duty in maintaining public morale.

The minister outlined the organization of local national war services boards which are in control of administration of mobilization regulations.

"The department at Ottawa does not deal in individual cases," he said.

"Not even hockey players?" Opposition leader Hanson interjected.

"If my friend suggests this department was responsible for the exemption of hockey players, I can tell him it was not," Mr. Thorson replied.

"I did not suggest that. I merely want to know how these young men got out of the country when they were subject to military draft," Mr. Hanson said.

Requisitions of the defence department for men for compulsory four months' training had been met by the war services departments "without any difficulty whatever," Mr. Thorson said.

"I want to pay tribute to the youth of Canada, their parents and their friends, for the manner in which they have come forward for military training," he said.

There were no exemptions and the longest postponement granted at any time was six months.

HERE AND NOW

Rev. E. G. Hansell, acting leader of the New Democracy Party, demanded to know, "here and now," exactly what Canada was doing in the war effort. He said he had difficulty gaining access to war industries.

Dr. T. F. Donnelly, Liberal, Wood Mountain, interjected he had had no difficulty.

"My friend is a good Liberal," Mr. Hansell replied, and then went on to say "we are merely tinkering with our war effort."

He thought asking school children to bring their candy money for purchase of war savings certificates a small way to carry on a war effort.

He also thought certain recruiting methods were petty, such as turning a spotlight on a man in civilian clothes on a dance floor.

Mr. Hansell complained because there had been no change in the banking system of the war.

"Banks are still creating credit as they did before, and creating it as a debt to the nation, with interest added," he said. "What is in the minds of many of our people today is whether we are justified in fighting to make men richer. The thing the people want to know is whether they are fighting for a new day or for the old day."

ANGUS MACINNES

Angus MacInnes, acting C.C.F. leader, called upon the government to open diplomatic relations immediately with Russia, for the sake of morale. The only way to fight Nazism was by greater freedom. The Canadian government, which he said was apparently acting for the privileged classes, seemed "afraid to get out of the old groove."

The government's labor policy had failed to obtain support of organized labor, Mr. MacInnes said. Even Labor spokesmen in Canada condemned it. It was definitely hostile to organized labor.

Munitions Minister C. D. Howe told the House Canada's war industry was nearing its maximum point of productivity, but new projects are still being taken on as additional productive capacity is discovered.

Canada now is in a position to manufacture aircraft to "meet all the requirements of the air-training plan, as well as the aircraft requirements of the British training schools that have been located in Canada," he said. He forecast that medium tanks production would reach 200 a month "early in 1942."

numbers of workers are placed outside it."

The report also stated the program called for undue sacrifice from labor and contrasted unfavourably with labor regulations in Britain, eliminated collective bargaining rights and placed no restrictions on profits of companies or salaries of executives.

Bengough charged the federal government "was considering further 'repressive' regulations for labor."

"We are not being governed by our elected representatives," he asserted. "We have more of a government by H. R. MacMillan and Company."

"The government is hindering our war effort."

Japanese Held

LONDON (CP)—A British authority disclosed today that two Japanese nationals had been arrested in India and Burma "in the last few days."

"We have no details," he said. "The Japanese were reported to be a man named Suzuki, who was arrested in Karachi, and another named Matsunaga, who was taken into custody in Rangoon."

Canada to Build Deadly Fighters

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Ralph B. Bell, director-general of aircraft production for Canada, said here Tuesday night a new secret fighter plane which will be "one of the most deadly weapons of the war," will soon be manufactured by airplane factories in Canada.

He revealed at a meeting of the Brantford Board of Trade that decision to make this super-plane in the Dominion had been reached Monday night.

In addition to this fighter, Canada will manufacture a giant four-engine bomber, which Mr. Bell described as "a battleship of the air, capable of winging its way from its point of assembly in Canada to any point in Europe—the piece de resistance of our whole program."

The secret fighter, the director-general said, would be a pursuit, observation and reconnaissance plane capable of flying the Atlantic.

RUSH STEN GUNS TO CANADA'S FORCES

OTTAWA (CP)—Snarling little sub-machine guns—affectionately nicknamed "Woolworth guns" by soldiers because they can be made comparatively cheaply—are being brought into production in Canada to give Dominion soldiers effective light armament.

Military men today welcomed the announcement by Munitions Minister Howe Tuesday night that among the armament being brought into production was the Sten sub-machine gun, a weapon which has shown its value in service overseas.

Officials said the Sten gun was actually a "machine carbine" which was usually fired from the hip and had no wooden stock of the type found on rifles and other light machine guns.

It is about 30 inches long and the magazine, of the box type, projects at the side. It fires a heavy .45-calibre slug and one veteran commented a bullet of the same calibre from a revolver was enough to knock a bear from its feet.

Officials said the Sten gun was developed in the United Kingdom and in several factors, including ease of production and cost, was considered an improvement over the Thompson sub-machine gun, produced in quantity in the United States and used to equip home defence forces in the United Kingdom earlier in the present war.

Canadian Apathy Seen as Danger

REGINA (CP)—D. B. Rogers, editor of the Regina Leader-Post, who arrived home recently from a trip to Britain with 11 other Canadian newspapermen, said in an address here he had come back "in a considerably less confident frame of mind than when I left."

"I have returned with a much more disturbing realization of the gravity of the outlook," the editor said, "and rightly or wrongly I have come back acutely conscious that the general war situation is, in truth, desperately dangerous, and with the conviction that the sooner we over there accept that version, and do more than we are doing to change it, the better it will be for all concerned."

"I do not need to remind you that every one of us, every man, woman and child in Canada, every citizen of the free world, is definitely—and all-embracingly concerned in the outcome of this war."

It was emphasized by Mr. Rogers that Canadians cannot sit back and expect the war to go on to victory "on schedule."

"Whose schedule, ours or Hitler's?" he asked.

"Let us never forget that it is his own timetable, not ours, that he operates on, and let us remember also, that all cannot possibly be well until we are winning by actual onslaught."

The editor said he felt that even after two years of war, there existed some evidence of apathy in Canada. Canadians, he said, "must search out and destroy it."

"Apathy can do more than all the fifth columnists in Christendom," he said.

Helsinki Crowds Denounce Germany

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty-one persons have been arrested in Helsinki as a result of strong anti-German demonstrations Tuesday, the British Broadcasting Corporation said today in a broadcast heard by NBC.

The BBC asserted that "angry crowds denounced Germany," with which Finland is fighting against Soviet Russia.

Another broadcast by BBC, heard by CBS, said Valio Tanner, Socialist Minister of Trade, was asked at a stormy meeting of his party to quit the coalition Finnish government rather than accept any responsibility for continuance of the war on the side of Germany.

But Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, Finnish commander-in-chief whom the BBC described as "Hitler's friend, virtually the ruler of Finland," was said to have rejected the American warning to make peace with Russia.

the situation today that should make any of our friends in Europe or America feel complacent," he said in an address to the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce.

"Unless we assert ourselves far more strongly than we have hitherto done, we shall not defeat Nazi Germany."

CLIMB IN PRICES SLOWER THIS TIME

OTTAWA (CP)—Figures available from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board indicated today that the upward march of Canadian prices since 1939 has been at a more sober pace than during the first two years of the last war.

On the basis that prices in the month preceding the last war equalled 100, the cost of living in September, 1916, had risen to 116.1. On the same basis, the cost of living between August, 1939, and October this year rose from 100 to 114.6.

The upward movement of prices in the present war has been steady, with no declines from previous months being shown in the lists of the board. During the last war, the cost of living dropped from 104 in March, 1915,

Italians Admit Sicily Bombed

ROME (AP)—The Italian high command said today British planes again attacked parts of southern Sicily Tuesday, but reported one of the raiders was destroyed by anti-aircraft fire and the other was believed downed by Fascist fighters.

British planes machine-gunned a train between Pozzallo at the southern tip of the island, and Ischia, about five miles northeast, the announcement said. Three persons were wounded.

Two British planes were claimed to have been brought down after a raid on Bengazi in North Africa, while German dive bombers attacked the British garrison at Tobruk.

Bugging Submarines

BRITAIN'S ADMIRALTY HAS CAREfully guarded the secret of the number of Nazi and Fascist submarines sent to the bottom by British shells and bombs. But yesterday's announcement that 1,276 officers and men had been rescued from an unexpected "bag" will be good comfort to the enemy and crews now in training for their task of finding and destroying Allied ships. As it is rare for the entire personnel of a submarine to be captured—a ship so little damaged that it had no casualties would not have to surrender except under unusual circumstances—the figure of 1,276 obviously indicates a much greater loss to the enemy than the 35 or 40 U-boats that would require a crew strength of that total. And many submarines are known to have been sent to the bottom without survivors. In this destruction, incidentally, Parliament at Ottawa has been informed that more than one of the sea raiders has been accounted for by the Royal Canadian Navy. Nor is Washington disclosing anything which might prove that attacks on American shipping have not gone unavenged.

The announcement of the Admiralty does not suggest that either Britain or the United States will assume any attitude of complacency. The battle of the Atlantic still goes on. Germany knows full well that unless she can prevent these valuable argosies from the New World from reaching the ports of the United Kingdom, her chances of ultimate victory will grow slimmer from month to month; for this reason alone she may be expected to double and redouble her efforts to destroy more and more cargoes of much-needed supplies. Considerable satisfaction nevertheless will be drawn from this official recital of outstanding success in dealing with these "rattlesnakes." Hope will prevail that 1941 will resemble 1917 in the fight between the Allied naval and air forces and enemy underwater craft. Twenty-four years ago the destruction of ships by submarine attack reached staggering proportions—840,000 tons in April and 633,000 in June. Then the average sinking of U-boats gradually rose from as low as three a month until, in October, 1918, no fewer than 19 underwater craft met their doom. That costly battle of the Atlantic had been won. The current one may be more difficult as Germany presses her attacks by torpedo bombing planes. But the situation is patently less critical than it was six months ago.

Dorothy to Charles

EMINENT AND WIDELY-READ COLumnist Dorothy Thompson has let her self go in a popular American weekly on her own and other people's pet aversion—Charles Augustus Lindbergh. She begins her article by asking what the former aviator hero really wants and then proceeds to answer her own question by a series of positive opinions on Lindberghian aims and desires. She cites his record to show he wishes to Nazify America and asks these four specific questions:

What does Lindbergh plan for 1944?
Would he destroy civil liberties?
Does he plan a purge of America?
Would he invade Canada?

Miss Thompson best reveals the contradictory role and mien of the former aviation colonel by this series of questions and answers: "Is he a Fascist? The public answers yes and no. Is he a pacifist? His speeches can lead one to answer yes and no.
Is he a lover of democracy? One could deduce evidence for the answer yes or no.
Is he really an isolationist? Yes and no.
Does he have personal political ambitions?
He says no but acts yes." Here are the well-known columnist's positive statements:

"I am absolutely certain that Lindbergh intends to emerge as America's savior."

"I am absolutely certain that Lindbergh intends to be President of the United States."

"I am absolutely certain that Lindbergh hates the present democratic system."

"I am absolutely certain that Lindbergh intends to remake the democratic system."

"I am absolutely certain that Lindbergh is pro-Nazi."

"I am absolutely certain that Lindbergh foresees a new party along Nazi lines."

Miss Thompson anticipates the inevitable questions: How do you know these things?
Can you prove them? She parries with this:
"If a letter comes in the mail and you recognize the handwriting on the envelope, can you prove it? If you sit down in a bus and see a face that you recall having seen the night before, can you prove it?" She says she has no "inside dope." But "I knew from his very first speech, a speech that on the face of it was harmless, that in a few months
he would come out openly against the Jews."
She recognized the face; she knew the handwriting. Miss Thompson, of course, was referring here to the address Lindbergh delivered in Des Moines on September 11, wherein he charged the British, the Roosevelt administration and the Jews with pushing the United States into war. It was a plain appeal to passion and prejudice.

Since Charles Augustus Lindbergh conceived the idea that his skill as an aviator entitled him to assume the role of a new Messiah in international politics he does not appear to have condemned the procedure by which Hitler and his gang have introduced their "new order" to the European lands they have ravaged and tyrannized. But "public awareness" in the United States, for which Miss Thompson appeals, nevertheless will prevent the advent of Gauleiter Lindergh to power in that country.

Gets His Third Term

ALTHOUGH PROFESSIONAL ELECTION prognosticators had conceded a victory for Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia on his bid for a third term as New York's chief magistrate, more cautious elements were slightly apprehensive lest Tammany machine discipline, plus the votes of a not inconsiderable Fascist-minded section of the electorate, might land Democratic nominee William O'Dwyer at the top of the poll. It is true, of course, that His Worship's plurality of less than 140,000 is the smallest of the three campaigns he has successfully conducted; but his margin over a strong candidate after eight years in office would seem to suggest that New York is in no mood to return to Tammany rule; its citizens evidently have not forgotten the gaudy days of spectacular
"Jimmy" Walker—with their corruption and general incompetence.

Not the least significant point in Mayor
LaGuardia's victory was the fact that Mr.
O'Dwyer had the support of such prominent Democrats as Mr. Edward J. Flynn, national party chairman, and Mr. James A. Farley, who was President Roosevelt's Postmaster-General—in his capacity of state chairman.
On the other hand, his endorsement by Mr.
Roosevelt and Mr. Wendell Willkie unquestionably had its effect on the electorate's decision. All the rules and impulses of political strategy, of course, would have told the President either to remain silent or to utter such meek praise of the "Little Flower" that the Democratic machine could have politely disregarded it. He did nothing of the kind; he spoke from the heart in the most unmistakable terms of the man who had helped him to win his own third term of office last November. And the Mayor obviously was singularly skilful in the conduct of his campaign. Perhaps his masterstroke came when he set up a tribunal of inquiry to investigate the charge of the Democrats that he had spent $1,000,000 on his candidacy; this was found to be several hundred per cent exaggeration. The vote would seem to prove beyond peradventure, therefore, that the people of New York still think Mayor LaGuardia's administration has been the most efficient and cleanest in the city's history.

Japan Still Hesitates

ON HIS WAY TO WASHINGTON IS MR.
Saburo Kurusu, former Japanese Ambassador to Berlin, to facilitate a United States-Japanese understanding through the talks which have been in progress at our neighbor's capital since last August. The Tokyo government-controlled Domei news agency suggests his mission will second the efforts which Ambassador Nomura has exerted to "explain the Japanese situation to United States leaders, including President Roosevelt." Coincidentally with the departure of this envoy, however, the Japanese Foreign Office organ, the Japan Times and Advertiser, publishes a seven-point program which it demands the United States accept if an accord is to be reached. In effect, this is a challenge to Washington to withdraw its influence from the Orient, recognize Japan's military, economic and political conquests during the last 10 years, and, generally, to sacrifice China on the altar of Nipponese imperialism—in short, to allow Japan's "co-prosperity" program to proceed unhindered by American or other interference.

Our neighbor fully understands the "Japanese position." Japan is so well aware of the fact that she must perforce send a special envoy to "assist" Ambassador Nomura in Washington; yet at the same time she permits newspaper propaganda in Tokyo to beat the drum of Axis collaboration in a token recognition of Nippon's obligations under the operative clauses of the tripartite military alliance signed in Berlin on September 27, 1940. At that gathering, incidentally, Mr. Kurusu appended his country's signature in his capacity of ambassador. But it is suggested he is not so enamored with Axis plans as other proponents of the general totalitarian scheme for dividing up the world. Meanwhile, Japan hesitates to begin shooting at the A.B.C.D. coalition; nevertheless the A.B.C.D. coalition grows stronger from week to week in its preparations for any eventuality in the Pacific.

JAP TACTICS

From New York Post

The motive springs of Tokyo's foreign policy are easy to find. When Japan thinks Hitler is winning, she snuggles up to the Axis side and makes faces at the Allies. When Hitler runs into any difficulty Tokyo gets scared; the government then tries to scam-ble back off its limb.

In short, the "Japanese First" crowd
(although it lacks the title) runs Japanese affairs. They are fascists in domestic affairs, and opportunistic imperialists when it comes to Japan's place in the world. Their guiding principles are no more permanent than the latest news reports.

Konoye's cabinet gave way to the Tojo cabinet because the Japanese expected Moscow to fall along about Saturday. The Russian resistance stiffened; as a corollary Japanese belligerence went limp. By Monday it was fairly clear that the last 65 miles to Moscow would be the hardest; the controlled Japanese press, with proper caution, began to assure the United States that conflict is avoidable.

No occult power is needed to foresee that Japan's present mood of "conciliation" will last only as long as the Red Army holds out.

Editorial Diary

RIGGING A STRAW VOTE

THE CATHOLIC Laymen's Committee for Peace" of New York announces that it sent a questionnaire to 34,616 Roman Catholic clergymen in the United States, that of 13,155 who replied more than 80 per cent were against "a shooting war outside the Western Hemisphere," also against aid "to the Communist Russian government."

A large majority did not bother to answer this impertinent communication, says the Ottawa Journal. They saw, of course, that the questions had been carefully framed to get the answer the "Committee for Peace" desired to advance its isolationist propaganda.

One question read: "Are you in favor of the United States aiding the Communist Russian government?" That was perfectly calculated, of course, to catch every last bit of anti-Communist feeling among those receiving the questionnaire. There is no question of "aiding the Communist Russian government"—one wonders what the vote would have been had the question been put like this: "Are you in favor of the United States giving aid to the Russian people in their fight for their homeland against unprovoked German attack?"

The other question was equally dishonest:
"Do you favor the United States engaging in a shooting war outside the Western Hemisphere?" Put in this way it was almost certain to get a negative response—few people "favor" war anywhere, and the general proposition drew the desired response.
If you ask a man whether he favors the shooting of all burglars at sight he will say No, but if you ask whether he favors shooting a burglar trying to break into his house you will get a different answer. A fairer question for the clergymen would have read something like this: "Do you favor the United States taking all possible measures, even to the extent of a shooting war outside this hemisphere, to assure the safety of this country against the totalitarian powers?"

So we should not assume, from this rigged ballot, that any large part of the Roman Catholic clergymen of the United States are isolationists. What is proved is that questionnaires can be dishonest and of no significance.

A FIFTH COLUMNIST

THEY HAVE inaugurated a campaign in England against the common cold, branded by the Vancouver Province as a fifth columnist because it works insidiously and tirelessly on the German side. It causes the loss of 20,000,000 working days each year, according to an estimate by the chief medical officer of the Ministry of Health, and these 20,000,000 days are sufficient for the production of 3,500 tanks, 1,000 bombing planes and 1,000,000 rifles.

Like all fifth columnists, the common cold works under cover and, by indirection, induces the people of the country into which it insinuates itself to do its work for it. Its principal implement of war is the sneeze.
So in the campaign in Great Britain—a campaign by education, by the way—the sneeze is receiving particular attention.

A single sneeze, according to the Lancet, can project as many as 19,000 droplets, each reeking with virus, into the air, and some of these droplets remain suspended for as long as 15 minutes. If the sneeze can be stopped, suppressed, muffled, the campaign is as good as won. But it is the individual who must suppress the sneeze. The authorities are helpless in the matter.

ASCAP MUSIC BACK

ASCAP MUSIC will return to the air over the networks of National Broadcasting System and Columbia Broadcasting Company sometime in November. All obstacles to an agreement between the networks and the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers have been ironed out and no further difficulties are foreseen. The society's music has not been heard over the two networks since January 1, when ASCAP and the networks failed to agree on how much and in what way the networks should pay for the music. Mutual Broadcasting System made an agreement with ASCAP last May.

GEMS OF THOUGHT—TEMPERATENESS

"The temperate are the most truly luxurious. By abstaining from most things, it is surprising how many things we enjoy."
—William Gilmore Simms.

"The golden rule in life is moderation in all things."—Terence.

"Be temperate in thought, word and deed. Meekness and temperance are the jewels of Love, set in wisdom."—Mary Baker Eddy.

"Temperance is the firm and moderate dominion of reason over passion and other unrighteous impulses of the mind."—Cicero.

Moderate desires constitute a character fitted to acquire all the goods which the world can yield."—Timothy Dwight.

An R.A.S.C. recruit had been out on an army lorry for his first day's driving and when he returned he had to report a slight accident.

"Sorry, sarge, and all that," he announced brightly, "but I ran over a fellow."
"Good heavens, was it serious?" gasped the sergeant.

"No, no." Just bent the wing a bit and scratched the paintwork."

A long memory has its drawbacks, though. You are bored by the old jokes that seem new to others.

Map of the Tilled Earth

From "Intimate Things," by Karel Capek

It would be a nice map that faithfully caught the natural colors of our earth. It would have to give the blackish green of firs, the rich green of young pines and the light green curliness of the leafy forests. But the greatest number of colors would be in the soil as we see it in the autumn, freshly plowed, not yet weathered or bleached by frosts and drought. A map of this sort would coincide, to some extent, with a geological map, but it would not be so erudite;
it would serve merely as a delight to the eyes. It would be beautifully painted and richly shaded, like the work of a painter who affectionately mixes on his pa-LETTE these different earths, these durable, un fading colors.

There is a whole scale of colors from the white sands to the fat black of the richest loam. In some places the plowed fields are whitish, light grey, as if made dusty and bleached by the drought; there are fields the color of very weak cocoa, almost blue, or like milk with a dash of coffee. Then clayey-yellow in different shades of ochre and rust; flax colored and golden soil, tawny with shadings of Naples yellow, Indian yellow, and burnt ochre. The most extensive is the scale of brown, from light straw-color to deep and rich tones of sepia, from loamy tints to intense reddish-brown like chocolate, coffee-brown, chestnut-brown, the brown of earthenware jugs or the warm, baked crust of loaves; the dry and bleached brown of shallow, tiny fields or the rich shades of the deep marl and alluvial soil. Then there are soils of auburn, dark purple, from glowing rust to brilliant red, shading into violet; soil in all intensities of sienna, madder, soils the color of bricks burnt in the kiln. There are rose-red districts and regions dark as blackening blood or blushing as if lit by an eternal sunset. District by district, almost village by village, there is a different color predominating and a different intensity of tint. Now that the crops are harvested the colored map of the tilled earth speaks to us to the full.

When we are talking of the colors of autumn to not let us forget the lovely warm colors of the sods turned over by the plow.

Here, too, we are wrapped by the blessing of the earth in a bright and changing garment. . . . It will be a long time before folk look on the colored map of the nations and states with the same pleasure as they do on the colored map of the earth.

MILKED BY BENITO

From St. Louis Post-Dispatch

The barren desert and flinty rock that once was Italy's empire is now largely England's prize of war. The proud fleet is humbled; the men-of-war lie sunken "in the green helms of the sea," and the chains that confine Italy in the Mediterranean are as alien things compared to the new-forged links that bind her, a beaten, captive ally, to the wheels of the Nazi chariot of war.

What a fleeing the people of Italy got from that spell-binding confidence man, Benito!

NAIVE CHAMPIONS

From Windsor Star

If prizes were to be instituted for naivete, we have a nice little ready-made list of candidates. It consists of people who play "games of skill" for money at fairs, those who invest in "money-making" machines peddled by strangers, and Mr. Herbert Hoover, who thinks Germany will let American food shipped to the occupied countries go to the suffering conquered people.

The original religion of Japan was called "Shintolism."

APPLE-COFFEE SOLD BY B.C.

TORONTO (CP)—British Columbia's apple industry, threatened by the outbreak of war which cut off export markets and shipping facilities, is being maintained with production of many by-products. Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia says.

The latest apple by-product produced in the province is a coffee substitute, the Premier said during a short visit here. Processed by a secret formula, the "apple-coffee" is so like the real thing "that only an expert can tell the difference, and tons of it are being shipped to the warehouses."

Everything was thriving in the province, Mr. Pattullo said, with the war having accelerated factories, mills, forest industries and shipyards.

En route home from Ottawa, where he reached an agreement turning over income tax revenue to the federal government, Mr. Pattullo spent a quiet day here Tuesday, visiting four sisters. He refused to discuss the recent provincial election, saying "I haven't had time even to tell the people of British Columbia what I think."

There are nearly 1,500 doctors among the European refugees now in England.

COMPOST PILE OF IMPORTANCE

A compost pile is most important for small gardens, especially the growing of vegetables. J. J. Woods, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Saanichton told members of the Victoria Horticultural Society at the City Hall Tuesday night.

Grass, weeds, leaves, kitchen refuse, all are excellent for the compost pile, Mr. Woods said. Intense composting was probably the secret of China's continuous tilling of her soil, he said.

Many mainland fruit farms are now showing a definite decrease in productivity of the soil, Mr. Woods reported. This was due to a great extent to the gradual breaking down of plant nutrients in the soil, which had not been replaced by new organic matter necessary for feeding new growths.

M. O. Mayhew won the prize for best chrysanthemum and A. E. Powell took first place for his celery.

Members stood in sympathy with P. R. Leighton of Duncan, former member of the society, whose son was reported missing overseas in the RCAF, and Mrs. George Atwood, whose husband, a well-known member of the society, died recently.

Toastmasters Meet

The Y.M.C.A. Junior Toastmasters' Club met at the "Y" building last night, many of last year's members attending. Plans for the coming year were discussed. The Senior Toastmasters' organization will aid the junior club this year, supplying instructors for the meetings. Anyone interested in joining is asked to contact Cameron Gorrie, boys' work secretary at the Victoria Y.M.C.A.

MUSIC RECITAL

The B.C. Music Teachers' Federation held a students' recital last Tuesday evening. Seven music studios of the city were represented.

The following pupils took part in the program: Norie Edel, Dorothy Davidson, Phoebe Hardwick, Marjorie Jones, Marion Pye, Oris Parris, Jean Robertson, Florence Vincent, Barbara Warren, Beverly Watson, Kenneth Coverdale and Allan Tregear.

During the baseball season of 1933, M. Hines, Boston National League catcher, had 99 passed balls.

FINE FOR KIDNEY AND BLADDER WEAKNESS

STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS. LOOK AND FEEL 100%

Keep your kidneys free from waste matter, poisons and acid, and put healthy activity into kidneys and bladder and you'll live a healthier, happier and longer life.

One most efficient and harmless way to do this is to get from your druggist a 40-cent box of GOLD MEDAL Bile Beans (Drugs) and take them as directed—the result will surprise you.

Besides getting up nights, some symptoms of kidney trouble may be backache, muscle pains, leg cramps, and puffiness.

Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—ask for GOLD MEDAL Bile Beans, the original and genuine product in Canada—the kidney cleanser and purifier. Look for the Gold Medal on the box.

What's Wrong With Our Army?

NEW WAR PUZZLE

CANADA now has under arms the greatest force she has ever raised. But it is a much different force from that which we had at this period of the last war. While our navy is doing a magnificent job—of which the public knows almost nothing; while our men in the air force increase in numbers each month and carry an increasing share of the load in the air war, our army has not yet had a chance to show what it can do.

We have six divisions authorized—of which five are fairly complete. Our first division is probably as highly trained as any in the British army. But, because of the peculiar and novel nature of this war, Canada's army is suffering in a most acute form from a handicap which hinders the whole British army effort in this fight against Nazi Germany.

BRITISH ARMY STRATEGY

In past wars—roughly speaking in the whole 400 years of the so-called Pax Britannica—Britain always followed a fixed policy. She always maintained the most powerful navy—and kept it ready in peace-time for instant use in war.

When war came Britain used the navy to strangle and weaken her enemy—to keep him away from her own possessions—while she herself built up on land an army which grew stronger as the war went on—finally becoming strong enough, in conjunction with the allies which she always enlisted—to overthrow the aggressor.

This grand strategy permitted Britain to build up her armies actually in the field of battle. Under the actual process of trial and error, gains and losses, it was possible to find out which generals were good and which bad, and so on all down the line. The army actually learned the science of war in the field of war.

It took Britain 15 years to get rid of Napoleon. There was one negotiated peace in this time: one incomplete defeat; as well as the final knockout. But the army which was built up to the point of being good enough to make that knockout learned its war in all the long years of fighting in Portugal and Spain before it ever saw France.

HARDER NOW

It is not so hard to teach men to march, shoot, and carry out unit manoeuvres. But when staff officers get around to moving corps and armies they have to be as highly skilled as the top executives in any business in the world. In the last war the whole British army fed its divisions into the battle line, one at a time, and they actually learned as they went along. For what might be called unit gallantry—the bravery of men and individual battalions, the first men and units in France made records never excelled. But considered from the standpoint of the professional soldier, the divisions, corps and armies of 1915 and 1916 were clumsy and unskilled as compared with those same formations in 1917 and 1918.

In this war we have not been able to apply the historic British formula. To date there is no certain indication that we ever will be able to do so. All of which means that the whole nature of our war preparation program will have to be modified as time goes on. In addition to all the primary training it will be necessary to conduct war games (so-called) on the largest scale. It was because Germany and Russia did so for many years before the actual outbreak of this war that they had the actual field experience now so necessary.

The United States has faced this fact—and probably gained more by the Louisiana war games than by years of the isolated type of training.

WHAT OUR ARMY NEEDS

My impression of the present Canadian army is that it has the makings of a force quite as fine as that of the Canadian Corps of 1918. Man for man, officer for officer, general for general, I think they are at least as good as their predecessors. What they lack to date is a chance to show their mettle. If they cannot get that, just yet, because of the novel nature of this war training must be modified and extended pretty soon as nearly as possible to provide for all ranks the kind of problems they will have to meet in actual war.

To move the Canadian Corps of 1918 was quite a staff job. To move a corps these days behind tanks, dive bombers, and against an enemy so equipped, may not require better private soldiers. But it certainly requires numerous staff officers who can only really learn their job by practice in the field.

Letters to the Editor

'ANY USE FOR OLD BOILERS'

In reply to your correspondent, Mr. Stanley Weston's letter regarding disposal of old kitchen boilers, I would like to confirm that all articles made of sheet steel or iron have no value at present in this district.

However, as all new production of kitchen boilers has ceased in B.C. owing to government priority rulings on the use of sheet steel, old boilers will have to be kept in use by means of repairs, as new ones are already out of stock at most dealers.

Thus fewer boilers will be thrown away, and fairly good old ones may come to be saleable in lieu of new ones.

DR. JEFFERS AND B.I.

My letter re Dr. Jeffers was printed under the caption "Not B.I." I did not say anything of the kind; what I did say was that Dr. Jeffers is not connected with either the British-Israel World Federation of Canada or the Anglo-Saxon Federation of America. There are very many more British-Israel organizations than these two mentioned. My object in writing was simply to correct an impression that Dr. Jeffers was speaking under the auspices of the British-Israel World Federation (Canada).

In fairness to both Dr. Jeffers and myself, I think you should print this explanation.

E. W. ABRAHAM.

REMEMBER THE LONELY SAILORS

I should like, through your columns, to make an appeal to the public on behalf of our Allied sailors.

These men, as you know, are continuing the fight—continuing under extraordinarily difficult circumstances—cut off from their country, their families and friends, no news of their homes but the grim accounts they read in our papers, and strangers at any of the ports they put in at.

Last Christmas one of our Canadian destroyers was berthed alongside two of our Allied ships. By mistake our Canadian mail was put on board one of these vessels, and had to be retrieved. The officer who told me of this said it made him ashamed and sick at heart to have those stacks of mail removed. One of those ships received seven letters—the other, none.

It is because of this—because of their loneliness and their need of human contact—that we have asked and received permission from Ottawa to form an organization, under the name of the "Allied Post," to send individual parcels for Christmas to all on the ships we have been asked to look after.

Later on we hope to be able to send parcels of woollens and comforts, so badly needed to protect the men from the bitter cold and continuous wet they endure.

Think what our men receive in this respect, and remember that others need it just as much; they are facing the same odds and the same deadly peril.

So give, please give, and let these men know they still have friends who can and are free to send them gifts, and who are only too anxious to do so.

All contributions will be most gratefully acknowledged if sent to Allied Post Headquarters, 2953 Viewmont Avenue, Montreal, or to the Store Room, Marine Building, 1405 Peel Street, Montreal.

ELSA MAY,
President.

$21,400 Made By Superfluties Store

In the two years since its opening in the first month of the war, the Red Cross Superfluties Store, 1220 Government Street, has made a net profit of $21,400, all of which has been turned over to Red Cross headquarters.

In its first year the store made $9,400, and in its second, which ended last month, a profit of $12,000 was made.

The Superfluties Store was first open for business September 19, 1939.

The Superfluties Store plan has since been adopted by other cities which have taken the Victoria store as their model. In the Victoria store all services and goods are donated to the store and the premises are rent free.

Historic Schools Merged in Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Amalgamation of two old educational institutions, one dating back to the early days of the 19th century, has given this city a highly-modern $265,000 high school.

Buried in the cornerstone of the new Quebec High School, which operates under the city's Protestant Board of School Commissioners, and for which the current academic term is the first, are histories of the High School of Quebec, founded in 1804, and Commissioners' High School, which traces its origin to 1875.

The two schools closed their doors as separate institutions last June, and the new High School, built of red brick and containing 14 general classrooms, was officially opened at the start of the fall term. Attending the ceremony were: Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader in the Senate; the late Senator Lorne C. Webster of Montreal, who donated the school's big auditorium-gymnasium, and prominent educationists of the province.

W. Q. Stobo, chairman of the Protestant Board, states that the school is debt free. Its classrooms have special lighting effects, and equally up to date are its two household science rooms, art, first aid and typewriting and shorthand rooms, chemistry laboratory, physics and biology rooms, 6,000-book library and its combined gymnasium and auditorium, measuring 80 feet by 56 feet.

Welcome to followers of local interscholastic sport is the projected laying-out of a football field on the school's extensive grounds. The Plains of Abraham, only place available here for the sport, are regarded as generally unsuitable for football.

Youth Guidance Aided By Chest

"When students of human relations survey problems created by war, they may well give attention to the direct results enlistment of fathers has on their sons," Magistrate H. C. Hall said today as he drew attention to the need for supervisory agencies operating to build character and citizenship-appreciation in youth.

"In wartime no one would suggest any obstacle should be placed in the way of a man joining the forces to fight for the cause he and his country supports, but attention must be given to the fact that withdrawal of the man from the head of his household places additional responsibilities on agencies which assume part of the duty at least of providing the guidance a father continually in contact with his son would give.

"For that reason the Community Chest, which supports such organizations as the Y.M.C.A., the Rainbow Sea Cadets, the Boy Scouts, as well as the welfare agencies which go more deeply into social problems, presents a strong appeal to the public. It is only when you come into direct contact with these problems that you realize the vast amount of work these agencies perform.

NEED GUIDANCE
"To those who come in contact with the boys who have been misguided or allowed to drift into bad habits, the need for continual good guidance, for outlets for the energies of youth in constructive body and character building lines becomes increasingly more apparent.

"Juvenile court records show the business of reclaiming youth is expensive. In the vast majority of cases those who have strayed can be restored to lives of honesty and decency. But the cost is much higher than that entailed in guiding them aright from the start. Such organizations as those previously mentioned provide that guidance to a marked degree. Its value is increased with the partial disruption which inevitably arises in homes which lose family heads to the service. To continue the work of the agencies, funds are required. The Community Chest provides the money and it can only finance the agencies if the public rallies to its support with generous donations.

"Contributions are more than gestures of goodwill. They are sound investments in citizenship," the magistrate said.

Church World's Dynamic Force

SIDNEY—In an inspiring message to the congregation of St. Paul's Church, on the occasion of the 50th year since its inception and of its 21st year of church union, Dr. W. G. Wilson, guest preacher, declared the church to be still the world's greatest dynamic force.

It held the dynamic force to bring men into lives of Christian service, like Grenfell of Labrador, and William Duncan of the Skeena. During the hard times on the prairies it had brought 772 carloads of food to the hungry and 150 carloads of clothing while government and municipal agencies were powerless to relieve suffering. Today it was the force operative in the aggressed countries of Europe and in the concentration camps which made many men and women martyrs rather than promise loyalty to Nazi tyranny. The world faced two alternatives. Either it had to accept this power of Christianity through some kind of spiritual reawakening or go on ever increasing armaments and weapons of destruction to the point of race extermination.

Blind Guests Today At Government House Party

Blind residents of Victoria, together with their escorts and friends to the number of about 140, were entertained by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. W. C. Woodward this afternoon, thus carrying on a delightful annual custom inaugurated at Government House some years ago.

The guests were received in the drawing-room, which was massed with chrysanthemums and late autumn flowers. Col. Hugh Allan, Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn and Miss Ruth MacLean being in attendance on His Honor and Mrs. Woodward. Capt. M. Robinson, M.C., of Vancouver, western superintendent of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, also received with the host and hostess.

After the formal reception the guests proceeded to the ballroom, which was also beautifully arranged with flowers. Here an informal program was given, including songs by Mr. Pierre Timp, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. G. Downes; vocal duets by Miss Honor Benson and Mr. Fraser Lister; and selections by Mr. Bert White, comedy one-string violinist, accompanied at the piano by Sergt. Paul Michelin.

Tea was served from long flower-centred tables in the ballroom. Members of the Victoria Auxiliary to the Blind, headed by Miss Ruth Jones, the president, assisted in entertaining the guests.

At the close of the program, Capt. Robinson, on behalf of the blind guests, expressed their appreciation of the generous hospitality of the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Woodward and touched briefly on the work of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. His Honor also spoke briefly, commending the work done in helping the blind to become independent, self-supporting citizens.

For the ceremony, performed by the groom's uncle, Rev. Hugh Bain of the United Church, Agassiz, B.C., the bridal party stood between tall standard baskets filled with chrysanthemums in white and pink shading to rose. Masses of chrysanthemums in the pastel pinks were also used throughout the rooms.

As the bride entered with her mother, who gave her in marriage, Mrs. Verna Jensen played the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin," and later sang the solo "All Joy Be Thine." The bride was attractive in an ensemble of airline blue sheer wool, with Burgundy hat and accessories, her corsage being of orchids and white heather.

Miss Rita Rodger was her sister's only bridesmaid, in a becoming frock of pottery rose sheer wool, blue hat, with wine accessories, her flowers being pink carnations and purple heather. Mr. Frank Drake of Vancouver was groomsmen.

At the reception, Mrs. Rodger, mother of the bride, received the guests in a blue gown with black accessories and a corsage of rose carnations and delphinium, assisted by Mrs. Abrams, mother of the groom, wearing a black dress trimmed with white, black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bride's table was centred with the wedding cake and tall lighted white tapers in silver sconces.

Mrs. J. C. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. H. Neal of Victoria were among the out-of-town guests.

For the honeymoon trip to Harrison Lake, the bride donned a black Hudson seal coat over her wedding outfit. They will later make their home at 3873, 21st Avenue West, Vancouver.

FUR COATS FOR BRITAIN!

A Most Unusual

ANNOUNCEMENT

Of Policy

Everybody wants to do his or her bit toward helping "Bundles for Britain." We, of Foster's Fur Store, sincerely believe it to be a splendid effort and one worthy of the support of everyone in a position to participate. We have, therefore, now decided to extend into a general store policy for a limited time, one which we have been following in part in recent weeks. The details of this new policy are simple and may be outlined in three brief statements:

FIRST:

We will accept your old fur coat at its present value AS CASH on the purchase of a new one.

SECOND:

So that your contribution may be acknowledged directly by the final recipient, an identification tag bearing YOUR name and address as donor will be affixed to each garment taken in trade.

THIRD:

The coat will then be presented—with YOUR compliments—to the local headquarters of "Bundles for Britain" for forwarding overseas.

If you are contemplating the purchase of a new fur coat, we cannot too strongly emphasize the importance of acting now while fine furs are still available and prices low. You most certainly can profit by this suggestion and you may never again have the opportunity of sending such a fine gift to Britain with your compliments and at no cost to yourself.

DON'T DELAY

Bring in your old fur coat NOW to help keep them warm over there. Its value may be such that no further cash may be needed as down payment on the purchase of a new coat on our convenient time payment plan.

Communism No Threat To Britain, Says Austrian

Russia is no threat to the British Empire, Dr. Franz Klein told members of the Women's Canadian Club at a meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Crystal ballroom of the Empress Hotel.

"Britain and Russia have no conflicting interests outside their own countries," explained Dr. Klein, a Vienna-born newspaperman, at present director of the Austrian office in London and editor of the New York-published journal, Free Austria. He referred to the long-sightedness and astuteness of Stalin in recognizing the Nazi menace long before it burst into flame while the democracies slept.

"Communism is a workable system," he continued, "but only at the cost of freedom and liberty." He felt assured, he said, that the English-speaking nations would be immune to it as long as their leaders in the future showed the same courage and foresight as Stalin had in the past.

"But if the democracies and Communism ever reach an equal footing in Europe," Dr. Klein concluded, "then I feel sure the cause of liberty will carry the day."

Dr. Klein traced the causes of the democratic countries' mistrust of Russia to three main sources and explained their disparity in the present crisis. The first was the lingering apprehension of Russia's old imperialistic regime in which were embedded the origins of the first World War. This has been superseded by pan-Slavism, an affinity of all the Slavic nations, with Russia as the guiding force. Russia recognized in this union a weapon to resist the growing seeds of extreme nationalism which were breeding in Europe after the war and which were encouraged, mistakenly, by the British, with the result that Europe was divided into many small, weak countries which were easy prey for Germany.

Referring to mistrust of activities of the Communist Party outside the U.S.S.R., Dr. Klein reminded the audience that the Russian foreign policy since the revolution of 1917 had been a peaceful one, that the Communists wanted to prove the workability of Bolshevism and had to have peace to vindicate their experiment, and their activities outside their own country were defensive, not offensive. Conflicts had arisen, with Poland for example, but not engendered by themselves. The Russians had tried to maintain in eastern Europe the status quo of 1919 and had always championed collective security.

Nazism was an aggressive policy, therefore much more "exportable," said Dr. Klein. "In three years the Nazis have made more headway with their propaganda in North and South America than the Communists in 21 years," emphasized the speaker.

SENSIBLE COMPROMISE

Stalin's nonaggression pact in 1939 with the Third Reich was the third source of democratic doubt in Russia, but, explained Dr. Klein, this was a sensible compromise for Stalin, who saw, after Poland's fall, a German invasion of Russia. He made good use of the interim by building up frontier reinforcements against Germany, adding the three Baltic states of Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia and areas in the Ukraine to his sphere of influence.

Leadership in eastern Europe after the war will fall in either

Germany's or Russia's hands and, said Dr. Klein, the Russians will better understand the necessity of keeping the proper balance of power, having learned the danger of extreme nationalism and anarchy.

Mrs. T. H. Johns, the president, introduced the speaker and Mrs. J. D. MacLaurin thanked him on behalf of the club members. A minute of silence was observed in tribute to the memory of the late Dr. J. S. Plaskett. Miss Peggy Walton, accompanied by Mrs. C. C. Warn, sang two delightful numbers, "Silent Strings," by Granville Bantock, and "When I Have Sung My Songs," by Ernest Charles, and for an encore she chose "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

In the brief business meeting which preceded the address, Mrs. Johns appealed to members for old felt hats and salvage furs to convert into war goods. A loud-speaker system was also introduced, to be used for the remainder of the season. At the next meeting, November 18, Mrs. Helen Hurn will speak on behalf of the war savings committee and Dr. J. A. Leroux of the provincial Department of Public Health will give an address on venereal disease control.

credit for my success should go to my teachers in public and high school and to my professors at college. Without them a difficult task would have been an impossible one."

Crookston was educated in his early years at Sir James Douglas School, continued his education at Fernie until well through high school, spent his fourth year at Victoria High School and has since attended Victoria College.

Professor Percy Elliott echoed Crookston's appreciation to the Kiwanis Club, putting much of the credit of his and other students' successes in their homes. He said the high standard of living in Victoria homes provided the answers for the fine results shown by students of Victoria College.

In introducing the bursary winner, Mr. Campbell briefly reviewed the history of modern education. He said it was only 100 years old, and came as a result of the industrial revolution, the technological advances of which demanded formal schooling.

This, he said, was the beginning of the breakdown of the apprenticeship system, and it had now advanced to the point where, to qualify properly for a trade or craft, the prospective apprentice must have matriculation or even higher education.

Education, he said, had sprung from an individual private concern of 100 years ago, to the point where the state recognized that it was to its economic advantage to see that its young people did not remain uneducated.

Frank J. Mulliner, chairman of the Victoria School Board, spoke briefly. Also present were Trustees Austin Curtis and W. Bayliss, Dr. S. J. Willis, Deputy Minister of Education, and Prof. E. S. Farr of Victoria College.

A mixed choir from Victoria High School, under the direction of Miss Norma Douglas, entertained the club with old and modern songs.

Duchess Wears 2 Sweaters At Colony Club Dinner

By HELEN FORRIST HALL
NEW YORK (AP)—Two sweaters were worn by the Duchess of Windsor when she and the Duke dined at the Colony Club.

The cardigan, accompanying a simple turtle-neck knit classic, provided enough warmth for "suit" weather and looked right for an evening which included several jaunts across town. The only things that distinguished these sweaters from the ones she might wear in Nassau—her home in the Bahamas—during the day were the black color and the jet trim.

This unassuming dinner costume exemplifies much of today's fashion story. Knits are good—knitted dresses, suits, coats, blouses. You knit them yourself, or perhaps you break the bank and have your favorite shop or custom knitter do right by you.

Mainbocher, that American born Parisian couturier now in America, made the Duchess' outfit. It bears out his current clothes philosophy.

The trimmest skirts must have room for action. The Duchess' skirt bells at the knees. For all women are busy these days. And, he says, there is an elegant solution for that intimate dinner, and trip to the newsreel, or the date with a soldier. It is under-dressing, with an overtone. Jet beads (they swing free) provide the overtone for the Duchess' sweaters, as do the pale yellow gloves and peacock clip of platinum and diamonds (there's that animal theme again). While the whole outfit is trim and slender, it is soft. Hardness, says Mainbocher, looks cheap.

YEAR TO YEAR

If you've been reading about the number of pieces of luggage the Duke and Duchess have with them, it might interest you to know that they're not filled with new clothes. Because she dresses simply, the Duchess can carry over a frock or gown from year to year. She likes to vary them with new jewelry or gadgets. The other evening she asked this reporter sweetly and sincerely, "Am I all right?" because I got this gown in 1939.

And because she resides in Nassau, those bags are not full of warm clothes. In Nassau, the Duchess has endorsed the little cotton frock and goes for the broomstick (idea, the peasantry type of thing which is all over the country right now—in resort or about-the-house clothes.

Practical Hints For Noon Menus

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
What makes a luncheon? We might ask soda fountain menu-makers. They serve so many people during the noon hours, their answers may give some practical hints to women who must feed sturdy lads and lassies who roar in from school hungry as lions.

Businessmen and women like this menu—baked lima beans with bacon, stewed tomatoes, cabbage salad and baked apple with grapejuice. If there's a little more cash in the pocket, they'll order individual chicken pie, stuffed pickled peach salad with coffee, tea or milk.

HOT DOGS ARE PETS

Frankfurters, stuffed with cheese and wrapped in bacon, broiled and served in buns is another soda fountain favorite. Hot roast beef sandwich with gravy, shredded carrots in lettuce and date-orange whip is popular, too. A large ham sandwich served with potato salad, with apricot meringue and coffee, tea or milk is a good inexpensive luncheon. For pretty eager appetites, these fountain menu-makers suggest savory meat loaf, scalloped potatoes, pickled beets on lettuce and cranberry whip.

Here's another practical hint. Soda fountain menu-makers always plan their luncheons around foods in seasonal abundance and therefore least in price. With these cheaper foods, they can serve more and charge less, making everyone happier. That's a thought to remember because it applies equally well to the family menu-maker's budget.

THURSDAY'S MENU

Breakfast: Orange and grapefruit juice, corn bread, maple syrup, coffee, milk.

Luncheon: Toasted cheese sandwiches, stuffed tomato salad, date bars, tea, milk.

Dinner: Savory meat loaf, scalloped potatoes, buttered Brussels sprouts, pickled beets on lettuce, butterscotch pudding, coffee, milk.

Scots Thank Local Church for Gifts

Members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church have forwarded funds to Scotland to assist the bombed people of the Clydebank area of Glasgow, and letters received by the church from the ministers' group which looked after the distribution of the money voice heartfelt appreciation.

Miss Chris Lawson, secretary of the Women's Home Mission Committee of the Church of Scotland, writes: "Warmest thanks for your sympathy and help." She encloses a letter from Rev. S. R. MacMorran of Clydebank, who acted as secretary of the ministers' group in the distribution.

"Dear Christian friends," writes Mr. MacMorran. "Some little time ago I received from Miss Lawson a cheque for £158 16s 9d, being the handsome sum sent by your congregation for the relief of distress among members of churches in this area consequent upon the severe air raids of March 13 and 15. As two of our local ministers were on holiday I delayed the distribution of the money until all could be consulted. We decided that grants should be made, first of all, to families whose breadwinners had been killed and to widows who had lost all they had possessed when their homes were destroyed. Such grants in aid have exhausted your generous gift, and also some smaller donations which we received.

"I would assure you that all the recipients were most grateful; and almost all of them requested that the kind friends so many thousands of miles away should be told of their heartfelt appreciation of such practical Christian sympathy. It affords me much pleasure to convey this to you, and also the warm thanks of the ministers who have gladly acted as almoners of your generosity. A congregation so ready as yours has been to send help to the sufferers from the Clydebank raids is manifestly marked by the spirit of Christ Himself."

Miss Lawson also enclosed clippings from the British Weekly and Clydebank Press mentioning the gift sent to the Old Land by St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

First C.W.A.C. Cook Doing Good Job

OTTAWA (CP)—Jean Brown, first cook in the Canadian Women's Army Corps, is turning out plain and fancy dishes in the Ontario military hospital here these days, but her real hope is that sooner or later regular combat troops will be eating the food she prepares.

"I'm very proud of my job here, but I hope I'll be able to cook for actual troops," she said today.

She expressed the opinion the place of any woman who can cook is in the army getting food ready for the troops, and added: "Men can cook well, but there are little things women can fix up that men cooks don't bother about."

Miss Brown has been requisitioned by the Ontario Military Hospital, under command of Lieut.-Col. J. V. A. Cavanagh, and is highly trained, having served as a cook in several prominent homes in England.

ST. ANDREW'S

The Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church entertained members of the R.A.F. at a Halloween party. The evening was spent in playing games under the direction of Hazel Kennedy.

On Monday evening the society met in the lecture room. Following the short devotional period, under the direction of Anne Stewart, the business meeting was held with the president, Margaret Stewart, in the chair. Lily Wilson divided those present into four groups to discuss the topic, "As the world is today should we continue to support missions?"

Reports on the findings of the various groups were given by Fred Arnot, Gordon Winter, Dick Sharpe and Nancy Cameron.

The Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church met Monday, Mrs. C. W. Hawkins presiding. A presentation of a chaplain's scarf was made to the minister, Capt. Rev. J. Lewis W. McLean, a gift from the Women's Guild. It was decided to hold St. Andrew's dinner Monday, Dec. 1, in the lecture room, to be followed by a concert. Mrs. W. A. Jamieson will be in charge of the program. Tea was served, hostesses being Mrs. G. Sanson, Mrs. W. Head and Mrs. Griffith.

Kurusu Flying to Washington

Japan Speeds New Envoy To Seek U.S. Accord

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese government announced today it is sending Saburo Kurusu, former ambassador to Germany, to Washington by trans-Pacific clipper in an effort to reach an accord with the United States "in view of the very serious situation prevailing."

Arrangements for Kurusu's trans-Pacific flight were made in radio phone talks Tuesday night between United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and State Secretary Hull, resulting in a two-day delay of a clipper's departure from Hongkong to enable Kurusu to catch it, a government spokesman said.

SUPPORTS NOMURA

The government spokesman said Kurusu's mission was to facilitate a United States-Japanese understanding through the talks which have been in progress in Washington since late August.

Domel, Japanese news agency, said Kurusu would second the efforts of Ambassador Admiral Kichiasaburo Nomura to "explain the Japanese situation to United States leaders, including President Roosevelt."

WOULD DICTATE TERMS

Nevertheless the departure of the envoy, whose title is special adviser to Ambassador Nomura, coincided with publication in the Japan Times and Advertiser, foreign office organ, of a seven-point program which it said the United States must accept if an accord is to be reached.

In effect this called on America to withdraw her influence from the Orient, recognize Japan's military, economic and diplomatic conquests of the past 10 years and approve her "new order" in greater East Asia.

The same paper returned to the attack with an editorial in its afternoon edition, urging the Chungking government of China to ensure peace and to compose her differences with Japan before turning her full attention to her crisis with Germany.

URGE CHUNGKING SELL-OUT

"To permit the downfall of Chungking would not greatly impair the position of the United States," it said, adding that Britain desires peace in the Pacific and safety of her Far Eastern ocean lanes.

Kurusu is famous as the diplomat who signed for Japan the three-power Axis alliance at Berlin, September 27, 1940, when he was ambassador to Germany.

However, Kurusu is not numbered among the most ardent proponents of the Axis pact. He has served long in English-speaking and French-speaking countries, having been ambassador to Belgium before going to Berlin. He married an American woman.

THIRD STAGE

His mission represents a third stage in recent Japanese efforts to reach an accord with the United States and prevent the deepening Pacific crisis—intensified from Japan's viewpoint by the economic and military measures taken in the Pacific area by the United States and Britain—from producing a clash.

The first stage opened with former Premier Kono's still unpublished letter to President Roosevelt. The second was represented by the return to Washington last month of Kaname Wakisugi, Japanese minister, who was understood to have carried new instructions.

chapter will send three large British posters to its adopted schools in the interior of the province.

MANY NEW BLOOMS

Hundreds of chrysanthemums will be on display at the Crystal Garden for three days commencing at noon tomorrow, when the Victoria and District Chrysanthemum Society stages its chrysanthemum show in aid of the Great Ormond Street Children's Hospital, London, England, which was bombed out recently.

Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. W. C. Woodward will officially open the show at 8 in the evening.

Some of the highlights of the display will be the noncompetitive groups shown by Mrs. Biggestaff Wilson, Mrs. A. C. Burdick and Mrs. J. W. Benning Jr.

With entries coming in fast, the show promises to be the best ever put on in Victoria and will conclude Saturday night at 9 with an auction of both cut blooms and potted plants.

55 New Corvettes

Canada to Build 146 More Ships

OTTAWA (CP) — Munitions Minister Howe today announced an extension of Canada's wartime shipbuilding program with negotiations under way for construction of an additional 55 corvettes, 25 minesweepers, 16 trawlers and an additional 50 merchant vessels.

After referring to the laying of keels in Canada for two large destroyers of the Tribal class, Mr. Howe said extensive facilities for ship repairs now are being provided at an estimated cost of $4,500,000.

"By this means a system has been evolved which will permit naval and merchant vessels operating in the Atlantic and which have been damaged by enemy action or other cause to put into Canadian ports for repairs," Mr. Howe said.

LARGER SWEEPERS

The minister said the 25 additional minesweepers will be of a size substantially larger than those made heretofore in Canada. The 16 trawlers would be used for minesweeping but would be suitable for fishing after the war.

In addition to ships already launched, Canadian yards were working on construction of more than 230 other naval units.

The 50 extra cargo vessels would be delivered in 1943, raising the ultimate cargo vessel construction program to 153 ships at an estimated cost of nearly $275,000,000. They will be of 9,300 tons deadweight. Included in the cargo ship program are 10 vessels of 4,700 tons.

SMALL VESSELS

Other commitments were for the construction of a variety of small craft amounting to $9,000,000, Mr. Howe said. The small boat program was being carried out by some 58 smaller shipyards and now was approximately 50 per cent complete.

In addition, more than 30 yachts and motorboats had been purchased and more than 50 smaller craft chartered by the shipbuilding branch of the department.

Ship repair facilities being provided included construction of a floating drydock and other docking facilities; extension of a number of piers to provide suitable berthing facilities, and additional machine shop buildings and tools. Contracts had been let for repair of naval and armed vessels to an approximate amount of $170,000. The minister did not say the exact location of the repair yards.

L.T. CMDR. H. L. EDWARDS of Saba, Texas, was commander of U.S. destroyer Reuben James, first U.S. warship to be sunk in World War. He is among the 95 officers and men missing. Edwards, 35, an all-round athlete, was wrestling team captain on the 1928 Olympic squad.

AUSSIES ARRIVE IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Nearly 700 Australian and New Zealand air force men arrived at San Francisco Tuesday on the Matson liner Mariposa and en route immediately for the east coast and Canada.

Many of them had the silver wings that indicated they were ready for assignment as trained airmen, to Britain's fighter and bomber commands.

The Mariposa also brought Governor-General Richard Brudenell, the De Gaulle chief of Tahiti and New Caledonia, who is en route to London to report to the Free French headquarters; and General Sir Guy Williams, British military adviser to New Zealand, returning to England for a new assignment after five months as the supervisor of New Zealand's arms training program.

A thick, low-hanging fog delayed for several hours the docking of the Mariposa. Decks of the liner were solid with the dark blue uniforms of the Australians and the grey of the New Zealanders as she drew alongside the pier.

Not all of the airmen were pilots. Many were observers and air gunners. There were several sections of the L.A.C.S., the air force cadets, en route to Canada for more training.

L.A.C. WALTER EDWARD CROMWELL DISBROW of St. Thomas was killed October 30 when an R.C.A.F. training plane crashed south of London. Without telling his family, he had used the name of his elder brother, Martin, to make possible his enlistment at 17 in the R.C.A.F. Walter's instructor, Sgt. Doug Campbell, also of St. Thomas and No. 3 elementary flying school at Crumlin, was seriously injured.

LOCAL MERCHANT MAKES GENEROUS OFFER

One of the most unusual and generous offers to be made to Victorians in a long time is that contained in an announcement by Foster's Fur Store appearing elsewhere in this issue. It seems to be truly a case of eating one's cake and having it, too, inasmuch as the offer, as advertised, makes possible the "spending" of your outdated fur coat as cash on the purchase of a new one, while at the same time making a present of it to "Bundles for Britain!"

In commenting on the unusual offer, Mr. A. E. Alexander, managing director of Foster's, pointed out that in an exclusive retail fur business such as theirs, garments taken in trade are never resold at retail over their own counters. Recently, however, since regulations had set a minimum down payment of one-third on such merchandise sold on installment terms, and to assist their customers, they had been in the habit of accepting used fur coats as part payment in lieu of cash. These garments, said Mr. Alexander, had been given to the local "Bundles for Britain" headquarters for shipment overseas.

The new store policy, then, is simply an extension into a general policy one that has already been quietly in effect. At any rate, it is sure to be popular and one that will create wide local interest among prospective fur purchasers and others.

R.C.A.F. Stands Guard Over Ill-fated U.S. Airliner

R.C.A.F. guards were a path in a wide circle about the wreckage of the American Airlines plane which carried 20 persons to their death near St. Thomas, Ont. Letters, some signed around the corners, were gathered from around the plane where they were scattered from broken mail-bags, and turned over to the company for handling. Canadian and U.S. investigators were hampered by destruction by fire of most of the wreckage, which might have revealed causes of the crash. A report from the board which investigated the crash is expected shortly.

EVER SEE A PICTURE SMILING? LOOK AT THIS. As full of smiles as any picture could be is this view of a group of Japanese-American youngsters who returned to the United States with their families aboard the huge N.Y.K. liner Tatuta Maru, which docked in San Francisco with 350 American citizens who might otherwise have been stranded in Japan. These kids, traveling second class, just couldn't stop grinning as they realized they were out of Japan before the shooting starts.

WOMEN ARE NOW DIRECTING ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE IN BRITAIN for the first time manning detection and fire-control posts. The firing line held no terrors for the A.T.S. UNITED STATES FLIERS ARE LEARNING deadly split-second tactics from six visiting R.A.F. fighter pilot veterans, now in New York. Here Wing Commander Roland S. S. Tuck, 25, who has destroyed 21 Nazi planes, describes aerial combat to Major Alexander de Severaky (centre), noted airplane designer, and Major Raymond Winn (right), of Mitchell Field, Long Island, N.Y. The R.A.F. pilots are guests of Americans who acted as observers in England.

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY OF THE 48th HIGHLANDERS' RESERVE BATTALION took part in the tactical exercises at Camp Borden recently. Captain F. W. Smart led the troops into action against an "enemy" of picked officers being trained for overseas service. The attack was carried out under a pall of smoke over rough terrain and they covered a mile and a half of ground in less than two hours. They won the praise of their instructors for their efficient teamwork. The picture on the left shows two masked attackers charging through the smoke-screen. On the right, a universal carrier is rushing up a machine-gun crew to a new position nearer the position of the enemy lines.

CAPT. GILLIS PURCELL, 36, of Toronto, public relations officer of the Canadian Corps, had his left leg severed at the knee when he was struck by a supply cannister dropped from a plane while on manoeuvres somewhere in England. The hospital doctors declared his condition as "really excellent," explaining "he is out of the woods now and making a remarkable recovery." He visited Victoria a number of times when serving as general superintendent of Canadian Press a post he relinquished to go overseas.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR W. C. WOODWARD AND MRS. WOODWARD are shown inspecting a dressing gown made by workers at the Red Cross distributing centre, Belmont Building, yesterday. They had previously visited the Red Cross Superfluities Store on Government Street and the Red Cross Workshop on Johnson Street. In the workshop they saw the veterans making poppies and wreaths for Remembrance Day for the whole of British Columbia. A total of 332,000 have been made for Armistice Day with another 15,000 to be finished before November 11. So far, 1,370 wreaths have been made for the Armistice remembrance and another 300 are under way.

HEADS of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association are really clamping down on players who have been in the habit of shopping around before deciding just where they will do their togs every season. One of the first blows of the axe wielded by that capable C.A.H.A. official, Prof. W. G. Hardy of Edmonton, fell yesterday on Jesse Seaby, former Nelson star, who is at present in Victoria and signed with the local club.

Seaby has been ordered to report to the Moose Jaw Millers of the Saskatchewan senior circuit under a time limit and failure to do so will draw a suspension for the season. Yesterday Prof. Hardy went to the expense to phone long distance to Ivan Temple, manager of the Victoria club, and give him complete details of the case. During the half-hour conversation Hardy stated he realized the Victoria club had no knowledge of Seaby having previously committed himself to play for Moose Jaw and that the C.A.H.A. would do everything in its power to help the local team out of the difficulty resulting from the loss of its goalkeeper.

It was further brought out during the talk that the C.A.H.A. is determined to put a halt to the practice of certain players traveling all over the Dominion to play hockey for whichever club has the most to offer. Hardy said it was time the team managers got together and gave the ruling body every assistance in its effort to call a halt to such "shopping."

Bowl Gridiron Tilts Forecast

NEW YORK (AP)—Stanford against Navy in the Rose Bowl; Fordham against Texas in the Sugar Bowl; Duke against Texas A. and M. in the Cotton Bowl, and Syracuse against Alabama in the Orange Bowl—there is a strictly tentative but possible line-up of the post-season football games to be played New Year's Day.

There is sufficient evidence on hand to show these pairings are more than wishful thinking.

Stanford, a good bet though by no means a cinch to return to the Rose Bowl, is reported to favor Navy as its top choice for an eastern opponent.

Fordham, the east's top team, figures prominently in Sugar Bowl and Cotton Bowl discussion, especially since they stand a good chance of finishing unbeaten and untied.

Cotton Bowl sponsors point to the fact Fordham lost a 13 to 12 decision there to Texas A. and M. a year ago, and would like to return to seek revenge for that defeat.

As for Texas, its attitude is a secret outside of the fact that coach Dana Bible has said in previous years that if his team were invited to a bowl game, he'd leave the decision entirely up to his players.

The Steers meet Texas A. and M. on Thanksgiving Day and that game should decide the southwest conference title. It may also settle the Sugar Bowl-Cotton Bowl host team question.

The conference furnishes the Cotton Bowl home team, but that team does not have to be the conference champion. Should Texas beat the Aggies, Bible's boys would be free to accept either a Rose Bowl or New Orleans bid, and the Cotton Bowl still would have a strong representative in A. and M.

The Orange Bowl committee, with a stadium in Miami that doesn't match the seating capacity of the other three and unable to offer the same inducements as the other bowls, will be content to try for a pairing of colorful teams which would provide a close game.

Seek More Imports For B.C. Hockey

NANAIMO (CP)—Increase in the import quota to permit British Columbia hockey teams to bring in four players from outside the province, instead of two, as at present, will be sought by Nanaimo delegates at the annual meeting of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association at Trail, November 9.

Lack of good junior teams on the Pacific coast, from which intermediate teams could draw, and mild winters which curtail promotion of budding talent will be given as reasons for the request.

Delegates from Nanaimo will be Jack Ryan, president of the newly-formed Pacific Coast Hockey League, and "Gerry" Berry, Nanaimo commissioner to the league.

Golden Bear Rolls

It was 27 to 7 for the University of California at the end of its family football fight with U.C.L.A. in Los Angeles. A big punch for the Golden Bear was the work of left halfback Al Derian, shown being pulled down by a Uclan after a gain of five yards. Morio (48) is shown on the ground after taking out a couple of Bruins, and Herb Wiener (30), U.C.L.A. end, is closing in to make the stoppage good.

Major Hockey Blake Away Again

Hector (Toe) Blake of Montreal Canadiens is in the habit of starting off each National Hockey League season with a bang.

The record books show that Blake, rated the best left winger in the league a couple of seasons ago, has scored in every opening game during the last six years. He ran his consecutive string to the half dozen mark this year by scoring twice as Canadiens bowed 3 to 2 to Detroit Red Wings a couple of nights ago.

Last year Blake scored in the opener against Boston Bruins, but after that he had a hard time getting goals. Blake was offered a $500 bonus at the beginning of the 1940-41 season if he made the Canadian Press all-star team. And hockey men say he started to press too hard in an effort to get goals, thereby winding up with a poor total.

But this year Blake hopes things will be different. His chances of finishing up high in the scoring received a jolt the other night in the opening contest against Detroit when centerman Elmer Lach suffered a broken elbow. Lach, a fine playmaker, had been counted on to set up a good number of scoring plays for Blake and the other member of the line, Tony Demers.

Last night was an open date for N.H.L. clubs, but the league resumes play tomorrow night when New York Americans, who tied Detroit Red Wings 3 to 3 in their first start, take on Chicago American Hawks in Chicago. The American Hawk tussle is the only one scheduled for Thursday night. But on Saturday, the Hawks bump into Canadiens in Montreal, while Boston Bruins, the Stanley Cup champions, take on Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto.

REARDON TO CANADIENS
WINNIPEG (CP)—Terry Reardon, forward with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League last winter, said here early today he had received word from Manager Art Ross of the Bruins to report to the N.H.L. Montreal Canadiens.

Reardon, who became the property of Boston Bruins three years after graduating from Manitoba junior ranks, said he did not know whether he had been sold or traded. He was scheduled to leave by plane early today for Montreal.

Reardon spent two years with Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League after making the jump to Boston last season.

He said he had been granted two weeks' leave of absence from the reserve unit here of the Royal Winnipeg Rifles, and plans to join another reserve unit in Montreal.

Two Grizzlies Make Rep Squad

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two Regina youngsters, one playing his first year of big-time football, the other a sophomore with Roughriders, won backfield berths alongside established football greats in the fifth annual Canadian Press all-star Western Inter-provincial Union team selected by coaches and sports writers.

Ken Charlton, 21-year-old rookie who was a substitute back with Regina Junior Dales last year, made such a sensational showing with the senior Riders that he was chosen unanimously for various backfield positions and spotted at flying wing. Another Dales product, Dan Capraru, was chosen all-star fullback in his second year in the union.

Selectors, recognizing the all-around strength of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, placed seven players of the defending western champions on the all-star team with three Roughriders and two of the third-place Vancouver Grizzlies. The second-place Riders open a two-of-three title series at Regina Saturday with Bombers, who are seeking a fifth straight western crown.

WINNIPEG SPORTSMAN DEAD

WINNIPEG (CP)—John Edward Gilroy, 49, prominent Winnipeg sportsman, died in hospital Monday. He was coach and manager of the Winnipeg Maroons Athletic Club from 1920 until 1936. A cousin, A. E. Gilroy of Portage La Prairie, is a past president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

On the forward line the Saints will present plenty of scoring strength. Doug Denniston at outside right is a newcomer to senior football, playing last season with Richmond. Jack Waugh at inside right is a former halfback who has made a spot for himself on the front line. Centre-forward Fred Whittaker is a product of juvenile soccer. He was outstanding against the Radials last week-end, scoring two goals. He breaks fast and shoots hard.

Veteran Les Morley will be at inside left. He is known as "Iron Man," as he never stops trying for goals. Played with Johnstons when they won the Canadian championship. At outside left will be Tommy Milstead. Although small he is the best ball handler on the club and one of the most entertaining to watch.

Victoria United will be at full strength, and with a good workout this week to keep the boys fit, manager Dr. Poyntz is looking for another win.

United After Second Coast Soccer Win

Coast League soccer will make its second local appearance Saturday at Athletic Park when Victoria United stacks up against Vancouver St. Saviours. Kick-off is set for 2.30.

United will be after its second straight victory, having turned back Vancouver Radials 4 to 1 in its opening match. Last Saturday Saviours whipped Radials 5 to 1, which would indicate Saturday's game will be between two evenly-matched eleven.

Announcement today of St. Saviour's line-up shows the Vancouver club will bring over a formidable squad. In goal for the Saints will be Dan Kulal. Former forward star with Ladysmith and New Westminster Royals, Kulal is one of the most colorful goalkeepers in the history of the Coast League. He toured California with the B.C. all-star team.

At right back will be Harvey Hall, a youngster who was reserve with North Shore last season. Veteran of the Saints, Ossie Ross, will be the other back. He is a great defensive player and has a fine club spirit.

On the halfback line will be Jim Milstead, left; Dip Arnett, centre, and Jimmy Gemmell, right. Milstead, playing his third season with the Saints, is one of the most valuable men on the club, being a hard tackler and good feeder for the forwards. Arnett is well built for the centre half spot, and is reported playing a strong defensive game. Gemmell is one of the cleverest players in the league. Has played on the last five representative eleven, and with the Saints he acts as play director.

FORWARD LINE

On the forward line the Saints will present plenty of scoring strength. Doug Denniston at outside right is a newcomer to senior football, playing last season with Richmond. Jack Waugh at inside right is a former halfback who has made a spot for himself on the front line. Centre-forward Fred Whittaker is a product of juvenile soccer. He was outstanding against the Radials last week-end, scoring two goals. He breaks fast and shoots hard.

Pro Hockey Players Can Get Reinstated

MONTREAL (CP)—Professional hockey players, refused passports and thus barred from United States teams, may take steps for reinstatement to Canadian amateur ranks, Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, announced today.

Calder stated: "As a general rule if the player requests it application will be made by the N.H.L. to the C.A.H.A. for reinstatement. Each individual case, however, will be dealt with on its own merits."

Calder did not enlarge on this statement.

In some districts hockey players of military service age have been refused passports to the United States.

Injuries Hit Oak Bay Squad

Old Man Jinx has moved in with the Oak Bay Blue Devils, and seems determined to stay awhile.

Two of the Canadian football team's smartest ball carriers, Ed McKim and Frank Scroggs, are out of the game for a time, while Coach Roy McKay this week is suffering from painful facial injuries received when hit by a swinging club.

McKim, flashy backfield player, will not don uniform again this season because of torn leg ligaments. Scroggs, who plays a fine game at end, must sit on the sidelines for a month while an injured shoulder mends.

What with injuries to players and coach, and a shortage of backfield players, the Oak Bay squad will be standing with its back to the wall when it meets the Victoria High School Alumni gridders Saturday at 2.30 at Macdonald Park.

In an effort to bolster their weakened ranks the Blue Devils are issuing a call for men.

Pahl and Wenstob Fight in Calgary

VANCOUVER (CP)—Managers of two Alberta heavyweight fighters, Pahl and Wenstob, said here Tuesday that their battlers would meet in a main event in Calgary, November 21.

Bud Davies, who manages the Pahl brothers—Danny and Packy—of Richdale, Alta., said Darby Melnick, Calgary fight promoter, had been trying for several days to close the deal.

"I'm interested in the bout," Davies said, "but there are still a few details to be ironed out before any contract signing will take place."

Joe McIntyre, manager for Wenstob, who hails from Viking, Alta., said that his fighter and Packy would meet in Calgary, but would give no details. He said he would have a statement to make later in the week.

TOWN TOPICS

Members of the C.A.T.S., Victoria Ambulance Corps, will parade tonight at 6.30 at the Sons of England Hall, Broad Street.

Eight motorists were fined $250 each in City Police Court today on parking charges. One was fined $10 for speeding.

The St. John Ambulance Division class on first aid scheduled to start at the Crystal Garden Auditorium Saturday has been changed to Friday at 8.

Monthly meeting of the Anglican Men's Fellowship of St. Michael's, Royal Oak and St. Columba's, Strawberry Vale, will be held Friday at 8 in the community hall, Strawberry Vale. Sandham Graves will speak.

The Victoria High School Alumni Association will hold its annual election for officers at the clubrooms, Chester and Fairfield, Thursday at 8. Dancing and refreshments will follow the election.

An R.C.A.F. orchestra will play at the dance being held at McMoran's Pavilion on Friday under auspices of the Cordova Bay Red Cross Unit. Miss Kathleen Lefler is in charge of decorations and Mrs. D. Hoyt convener of the refreshment committee.

It will probably be mid-January before the Malahat is open, following extensive repairs. It was hoped to have the road open by Christmas, but this has now been found impossible. The Public Works Department reported today. In the meantime all up-island travel will use the Shawnigan Lake cutoff.

Tentative arrangements for an intermunicipal meeting to discuss with Dr. F. G. Amyot, provincial health officer, creation of a metropolitan health board for Greater Victoria, were announced at the City Hall today. If possible the meeting, at which Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt delegates will be present, will be held on November 18.

Improvements to that section of Foul Bay Road where Gonzalez intersects, are sought in a letter received at the City Hall from T. J. Goodlake. The abrupt, uphill grade, locally called "Hell's Corner" has been the scene of four accidents in the last two years. Formation of rock which obscures the view and lack of protection work on the other side creates a dangerous traffic hazard.

Elaborate Ballets To Be Presented

Pre-war dazzling triumphs at Covent Garden, often in the presence of the Queen, who is a ballet enthusiast, won by Col. de Basil's Original Ballet Russe are being continued on this side of the Atlantic.

When this glittering company comes to the Royal Victoria Theatre November 17 and 18, they will present different programs each night. Swan Lake, Graduation Ball and Paganini will be given on November 17 and Les Sylphides, Aurora's Wedding and Les Presages the following night. As some of these ballets have cost between $35,000 and $60,000 each to produce, some idea of the big business Col. de Basil is engaged in may be imagined. A wide selection of seats is still available at the box office at Ballantynes, 1211 Douglas Street.

E. F. Fox Seeks Council Seat

Edwin F. Fox, immediate past president of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, will seek election to the City Council in December, he announced today.

His entry raised to three the number already in the field. Previous announcements had been made by School Trustee F. A. Willis and George E. MacDonald.

Of the five aldermen whose terms expire in December, two, Alderman R. A. C. Dewar and Alderman S. H. Oskell, will withdraw from public life, but has yet to say whether or not he will run for another term on the council or oppose Mayor Andrew McGavin for the post of chief magistrate.

Mr. Fox was for three years president of the Labor Council, completing his service in that post at the end of 1940. In addition he has been for 15 years president of the Street Railway Employees' Association here, and for the last five years, represented Vancouver Island on the B.C. executive of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Prominent in affairs of the Community Chest, on the board of management of which he sits, he has also served on war savings committees.

He has lived in Victoria for the last 35 years, and now resides at 2747 Prior Street.

SERVED ON SCHOOL BOARD
Mr. Willis, who has entered the council field after two years' service on the school board, has been chairman of the finance committee of the board for one year. An accountant by profession, he has resided in Victoria for the last 30 years and served three and one-half years in the Great War.

He voiced no violent criticism of the present administration, but expressed the view the utmost co-operation between public bodies is necessary not only in the prosecution of the war effort, but in post-war activity.

Mr. MacDonald, resident here since 1931, started business in this city as a partner of R. J. Jameson of Jameson Electric Company. Later they purchased the business of Hawkins & Hayward, and in 1935 Mr. MacDonald bought out Mr. Jameson's interest, giving the firm his own name.

A former member of the board of the Council of Social Agencies, he served when the Community Chest was organized. He is a director of the Chamber of Commerce, and is serving his fourth term as chairman of the retail merchants section. At present he is president of the Victoria Boys' Band, a past president and director of the Victoria Credit Granters' Association and a member of the Rotary Club.

Looking towards strenuous times ahead, he stands on a platform of strict economy.

Synagogue Service
Special Remembrance Day services will be held at the synagogue, corner of Blanshard and Pandora, Sunday afternoon, at 3. The pulpit will be occupied by Dr. J. H. Nard of this city, who will conduct the services.

A sermon will be delivered by Sub-Lieut. J. P. Lunzer, R.C. N.V.R., of London, England, and the local choir will also render the traditional Hebrew hymns.

An open invitation has been extended to all Jewish members of His Majesty's forces, and special seating accommodation has been arranged to provide for extra seats.

R.A.F. PUBLISHES SECOND PATRICIAN

The second issue of the Patrician, monthly publication of the R.A.F. men at Patricia Bay, is off the press. It is complete with poems, cartoons, articles, features and stories.

Mud is still the topic of much discussion in the Patrician. A.C. A. Wiles won $2 for the best article written on the "watery situation." The article, which describes some of the misfortunes of air force officers and men in manoeuvring in the mud, appears on page 22. Mud is also dealt with in cartoons and poems.

Since much has been written of the R.A.F.'s impressions of Canada, the editors have offered in an interview with A.C. John and L.A.C. Jim Speedie of Sidney, two Canadians' impressions of England.

The editor's aim is to make the magazine representative of the "station." From the diversity of topics covered, it would seem the objective is achieved. Victoria merchants have been generous in advertising support and the editors report also the circulation is growing both locally and in hundreds of the magazines sent overseas.

Cyclist Injured

Condition today of Fred Uszen, 1254 Pandora Avenue, a cyclist injured in an accident Tuesday afternoon at Mears and Vancouver, was reported good by his attendants at Jubilee Hospital. Uszen received a broken ankle, a bad cut over the right eye and painful bruises to his face when his bicycle and a truck driven by James Gore, 947 Mears Street, were in collision at about 2.40.

Police said the cyclist lost control of his bicycle at the intersection while he was going east on Mears, and ran into the side of the truck which was traveling north on Vancouver and turning west on Mears.

The injured man was attended at hospital by Dr. Lloyd Bassett. He was conveyed to hospital in the police ambulance by Constables C. Webb, J. Kelly and A. Briggs.

Margaret McConnell, 1015 Empress Avenue, was treated at Jubilee Hospital Tuesday evening for a cut on the right side of her head when a car driven by Clarence V. McConnell, in which she was riding, and a car driven by Albert L. Wiley, 1497 Gladstone Avenue, collided at Broad and Pandora.

Slight damage was done to a car driven by J. F. Margoe, Patricia Bay, and a motorcycle driven by Watson Henry, 1440 Craigflower, when they collided at Pandora Avenue and Quadra Tuesday afternoon.

Language Trouble

Some of the English airmen are having a little trouble with the Canadian monetary system, according to the monthly magazine The Patrician, the second issue of which has just been published by the unit at Patricia Bay. Some of them thought a dime was a Cockney's girl, it says. Now they find it is 10 cents.

Navy Minister Macdonald

Canadian Sailors
Take Toll of Enemy

OTTAWA (CP) — More than one Nazi submarine lies at the bottom of the sea because of the vigilance and skill of men of the Canadian navy, the House of Commons heard last night from Navy Minister Macdonald.

This war had not been without its casualties for the Royal Canadian Navy, the minister said in a navy review, but Canadian sailors had also taken their toll of the enemy.

"Five enemy merchant ships have been captured by our navy since commencement of hostilities," he said. "Enemy submarines have been frequently attacked by our ships, mainly by depth charges, and while it is not possible to give details of these actions, it may be said with certainty that some of the attacks have had highly successful results and that more than one German U-boat now lies at the bottom of the sea because of the vigilance and skill of men of the Canadian navy."

DESTROYER BUILDING HERE

As well as dwelling on the men of the sea, the minister spoke also of ships, and said that the building of destroyers in Canada would be undertaken "very shortly," and already some skilled naval constructors from England had arrived to supervise the work.

Plans for the destroyers were well in hand, and as soon as the material was available—and this would be very shortly—the work of destroyer building would start.

He forecast the opening of the Royal Canadian Naval College, mentioned early in the present session, in the autumn of 1942.

"This college," said Mr. Macdonald, "will be a training ground for officers of the navy. It will be an invaluable addition to our program of organizing the Canadian navy."

The expansion in ships and men of the Canadian navy had been substantial, but still further expansion was the aim — "we shall have more men and more ships."

The navy minister, who followed Munitions Minister Howe in reviewing his department, said that in the last 12 months the increase in personnel of the Canadian navy had been even greater than in the first 14 months of the war.

NAVY STRENGTH GROWS

Total Canadian Navy strength today was 27,000 officers and men — "a truly phenomenal expansion from the first days of the war."

These men of the R.C.N. — with 4,000 on the waiting list — were to be found in every sea of the world, the majority of them on Canadian ships, but several hundred of them on loan to the Royal Navy. Those on such loan were paid by Canada at Canadian rates of pay.

The number of ships of the Canadian Navy increased along with the increase in personnel. A year ago ships numbered 155. Today they numbered 300, including armed auxiliary cruisers, destroyers, corvettes, minesweepers, patrol boats and auxiliary vessels of a great variety of types.

"At this moment Canadian ships are separated by 10,000 miles of land and sea," he said. "Some of them are on convoy work; some of them are protecting the shores of this country; still others are co-operating with the Royal Navy."

SAFE CONVOY

Not one ship proceeding in troop convoy from Canadian shores to Great Britain had lost a man on the way. Seven thousand ships had left Canadian ports for Great Britain since war started, carrying 42,500,000 tons of cargo and a great deal of the convoy work of these ships fell to the R.C.N.

Steps taken recently by the United States navy for extended patrol of certain portions of the seas which lie between America and Europe had been greatly heartening.

Forty-nine officers and men of the Canadian Navy had received decorations, mention in dispatches or recommendations. Since the beginning of the war 364 officers and men had been killed, 67 wounded and two made prisoners of war.

In the last year two ships had been lost, the Otter, an armed patrol ship which caught fire and foundered off Halifax in March with loss of 19, and more recently the corvette "Levis," which was torpedoed with loss of 17 men.

Welders Ordered
Back to Work

SEATTLE (AP) — By telephone and radio strike headquarters of the Seattle Welders' and Burners' Council began summoning welders to return to work immediately on receipt of word from Washington this morning of a settlement to end the 15-day-old welders' strike which has crippled millions of dollars of national defence work in this area.

Air Links in B.C.
Defence Chain

OTTAWA (CP) — Disclosure that Canada is constructing operational airports in Labrador and along the northern British Columbia coast was made last night in the House of Commons by Munitions Minister Howe.

"Operational airports," said Mr. Howe, "now are under way in Newfoundland and Labrador, between Edmonton and the Alaskan boundary and along the northern coast of British Columbia, in areas far from human habitation, involving unusual engineering problems."

These new fields, when completed, would provide valuable new links in the chain of air defences being established by Canada and the United States.

It has been known for some time that construction of new bases was going ahead rapidly in Newfoundland and in the northwest. A chain of seven airports is being made up of Alaska, providing a short-hop route by which Canadian and United States fighting planes could be rushed to the north if the need arose. These northern bases now are in use.

There have been indications of the growing importance of west coast aerial defences. Only recently it was announced Air Commodore L. F. Stevenson, officer commanding the R.C.A.F. establishment overseas, was being recalled and would take over the post of officer commanding the Western Air Command at Victoria.

"Scope of the Labrador development was not disclosed by the minister. The wording of the paragraph in his speech did not make clear whether one or more airports is being built there."

Mr. Howe's reference to airport construction also included an outline of the work accomplished in construction of other fields for operational and training purposes.

"The air services branch of the Department of Transport, which now operates under the direction of the Minister of Munitions and Supply, had up to the end of September completed 108 new airports for the use of the R.C.A.F. and (British Commonwealth) air training plan, and had 31 additional airports under development," Mr. Howe said.

Included in the above are 18 airports now occupied by the Royal Air Force in connection with its training project in Canada.

"As at August 31, 1941, the sum of $64,000,000 had been allocated for airport construction, exclusive of buildings. In addition, the cost of airport hangars, workshops, barracks and associated works and buildings for the Department of National Defence for air has involved an expenditure of $117,000,000."

"Over 100 airports have been equipped for night flying; and power, telephone and lighting facilities have been installed by the air services branch at a cost of $5,200,000."

"In my opinion, this work of airport construction calls for all credit to Canada's construction industry and to the staff of the air services branch of the Department of Transport, who have planned and supervised the work."

Welders Ordered
Back to Work

SEATTLE (AP) — By telephone and radio strike headquarters of the Seattle Welders' and Burners' Council began summoning welders to return to work immediately on receipt of word from Washington this morning of a settlement to end the 15-day-old welders' strike which has crippled millions of dollars of national defence work in this area.

James W. O'Brien, council president, said he was notified from Washington by Dave Basor, council executive secretary, at 7:33. Within 10 minutes he and aides were busy broadcasting word to the 1,700 strikers here and at Tacoma to go back to work.

The welders here were ordered to report to strike headquarters at the Moore Hall before going to the shipyards.

In Tacoma, strike officials called the 475 welders to a mid-day meeting, and said they hoped to have most of them back to work in the big Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding Company plant there by 4.

Work at the Tacoma plant, which has $125,000,000 in defence orders, has been almost at a standstill for two weeks.

The strike, which spread down the Pacific coast and in the past few days was brought the closing or threatened closing of large California shipbuilding and aircraft plants, started here after the welders' and burners' council demanded a charter for international union from the American Federation of Labor.

The recent national A.F.L. convention here turned down the demand and reaffirmed its stand that welding was a "tool" and that the welders should remain scattered among numerous other A.F.L. unions. The welders here withdrew to affiliate with a new independent union, the United Welders, Cutters and Helpers, and when the Seattle Metal Trades Council, an A.F.L. affiliate, demanded that a large shipyard live up to a closed shop contract and replace the rebelling welders, a strike was called.

Shipyard here and at Tacoma, working on millions of dollars of navy and defence contracts, remained open, but the lack of welders handicapped work. Workers crashed through welded picket lines at the Lake Washington shipyards at Houghton, across Lake Washington, to enter the yards.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Associate Director Sidney Hillman of the office of production management said today a committee representing striking west coast welders had agreed to ask the strikers to return to work immediately.

The number involved in the walk-out is estimated variously by the union at 2,000 and by the O.P.M. Labor division at 5,000. About 10,000 other workers have been made idle by the strike.

After all-night negotiations, which broke up at 7 today, Hillman said Karl V. Morris, president of the United Welders, Cutters and Helpers of America, had been designated to call off the walk-out.

As soon as the men returned to work, Hillman added, the O.P.M. would call a conference of the welders, O.P.M. labor officials, and representatives of other labor organizations interested in the dispute in an effort to find a permanent solution of the welders' troubles.

Purvey, fisheries patrolman, said Hall had made what appeared to be a deliberate set about 350 yards inside the boundary.

Two other purse seiners, Randolph Thompson of the Nishama, and Louis Hall of the Hatto, who drifted within the boundary at the same time, were each fined $25 and costs.

JOE: "... sure, I'd like my boy to go to college, but what am I going to use for money?"

FRED: "He will be ready for college in about seven years or so, won't he? Why don't you buy War Savings Certificates now? Then you can cash them in about the time your boy is through High School."

JOE: "How do you figure that out?"

FRED: "Well, a War Savings Certificate costs $4.00. At the end of seven and a half years you cash it in for $5.00. If you invest $20.00 a month in War Savings Certificates now, you'll have $25.00 coming in every month seven and a half years from now."

JOE: "What if I need the money in the meantime?"

FRED: "You can get it, if you need it—the Government will cash in your Certificates any time after six months. Why not plan now to put the money away for your boy?"

JOE: "Sounds good to me—think I'll take your advice."

The help of every Canadian is needed for Victory. In these days of war the thoughtless, selfish spender is a traitor to our war effort. A reduction in personal spending is now a vital necessity to relieve the pressure for goods, to enable more and more labour and materials to be diverted to winning the war. The all-out effort, which Canada must make, demands this self-denial of each of us.

George Phillips Dies Suddenly

Sudden passing of George Phillips, former superintendent of the Esquimalt dockyard, came as a great shock to his many friends in the city.

Apparently in good health to the last, he died suddenly at 5 Tuesday afternoon at his home, 430 St. Patrick Street.

As superintendent of the Esquimalt dockyard, Mr. Phillips had charge of the outfitting of the Stefansson Arctic expedition ship Karluk here in 1918. Phillips Strait was named after him by Stefansson. At the outbreak of the last world war Mr. Phillips figured in the negotiations for the purchase of the two submarines building for the republic of Chile in Seattle, a deal arranged by Sir Richard McBride for the protection of this port against enemy raiders ranging the Pacific.

LATE GEORGE PHILLIPS

He also helped to outfit the steamer Prince George as a hospital ship to accompany the Rainbow in search of the Leipzig and Nurnberg.

Keenly interested in music and dramatics, Mr. Phillips, more particularly since his retirement in 1933, entered enthusiastically into the musical and amateur dramatic activities of the city.

He was a member of the Royal Choral Society in London and a charter member of the Arion Choral Society of Victoria, of which he was president for some years. He was one of the founders of the Victoria Choral and Orchestral Union and held the office of secretary-treasurer.

He was a life member of the Engineering Institute of Canada. Mr. Phillips, born in London in 1868, was the son of Capt. and Mrs. John Phillips. He joined the Admiralty service at Esquimalt in 1910, when the Canadian government took over jurisdiction of the dockyard and he continued in the Canadian service.

His family, which had been awaiting his return to England, joined him in Victoria and he remained in charge of the dockyard here until his transfer in 1917 to Halifax. He remained in Halifax for two years and was transferred to the Department of Defence at Ottawa in 1919. He was transferred back to Esquimalt in 1922 and served as superintendent in charge of stores until his retirement in 1933.

Following his retirement, Mr. Phillips became secretary of the Naval Veterans' Branch of the Canadian Legion, and only Tuesday morning made his routine call at the Legion's Broad Street headquarters.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Frank Greenhouse and Miss Joy Phillips; and one grandson, John Phillips Greenhouse, all residing here, and a sister in England.

With the Forces

L.A.C. L. C. WATSON, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Watson, 1923 Belmont Avenue, has returned to Ontario after spending leave with his parents. He is attending R.C.A.F. No. 5 Bombing and Gunnery School, Mount View, Ontario.

Canadian Fliers Win High Honors

LONDON (CP)—Four Canadian members of the R.A.F., two of them from western Canada and two from Nova Scotia, have been decorated for their skill, stamina and leadership in bombing attacks carried out in Europe and the Middle East.

They are: Acting Flt-Lt. J. R. Manahan, Winnipeg, awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Flt-Lt. K. B. Corbould, New Westminster, B.C., Distinguished Flying Cross.

Flt-Lt. D. M. Hilsley, Niakwa Falls, N.S., Distinguished Flying Cross.

Sgt. F. B. Little, Tusket, N.S., Distinguished Flying Medal. The citations said Manahan completed 15 raids against targets in Germany, France and Belgium before being posted in the Middle East, where he has engaged in operations against objectives in the western desert, in Crete, Rhodes and Greece.

Arduous reconnaissance flights over the western desert and Eritrea earned the honor for Hilsley, a native of Leominster, Mass. Once during bad weather he flew to 500 feet over Massana to obtain photographs.

Corbould has carried out 115 operations in Aden, Ethiopia, Crete, over the Red Sea and the Mediterranean, and his citation said he has "consistently shown courage and devotion to duty and by the exceptional power of his leadership has inspired the other members of his flight."

Little's citation said that as an observer he had "completed a number of long and difficult flights in adverse weather conditions. Throughout he displayed great skill in the performance of his duties and always navigated his craft back to his base."

U.S. Draft Dodger In R.C.A.F.

WINNIPEG (CP)—P.O. Foster Hannaford of St. Paul, Minn., commissioned in the R.C.A.F. at Ottawa, October 10, has been certified in the United States as a "draft dodger."

The 27-year-old flier came to Winnipeg September 17 to enlist with the R.C.A.F. the day he was scheduled for induction into the U.S. army, and said he did not want to be called in the draft as it would mean a year without being able to fly an airplane.

Hannaford, a member of a prominent St. Paul family, had appealed directly to Washington asking deferment pending investigation of his local draft board, which he charged was "unfair and prejudiced." Last March Hannaford was granted deferment when he applied for a naval commission but later his application was rejected.

While in Winnipeg he was tested in blind flying practice by a civilian company and found to be a highly-skilled pilot. He held commercial and seaplane pilot licenses in the United States and had 6,000 hours of flying to his credit.

Nazis Talk About Salinas.

BERLIN (AP)—German spokesmen, commenting on the attack on the United States naval tanker Salinas near Iceland, asserted that "now as always, we can only say that whoever starts for England heads for certain death." (There was no loss of life on the Salinas when she was torpedoed and though seriously damaged, she made her way to port.)

Canadian Plane's Bombs Blast Ship

Rhineland Pounded By R.A.F. After Lull

LONDON (CP)—R.A.F. bombers attacked industrial targets in the Rhineland and the Ruhr Valley Tuesday night, renewing raids on Germany after a lull of several nights enforced by bad weather, the Air Ministry announced today.

Docks at Ostend and Dunkerque on the German-occupied French coast also were bombed.

At the same time, other R.A.F. formations patrolling the coasts of Norway and the Netherlands in search of German supply shipping scored bomb hits on a large merchant vessel off Terschelling. Loss of one bomber in the overnight operations was disclosed by the Air Ministry.

There were no indications of German air activity over Britain during the night, the daily communique being limited to a terse "nothing to report."

SUCCESS OFF FRIESIAN ISLANDS

The Air Ministry also said a Hudson bomber attached to the Canadian squadron of the coastal command "which scored such notable successes last week," had hit a large ship off the Frisian Islands.

This aircraft had no Canadians in its crew, the ministry revealed, although it belongs to the R.C.A.F. squadron. Its dramatic exploit was told in these words in the morning communique, which said that when sighted "the convoy of six ships was steaming exceptionally fast."

"A Hudson pilot quickly picked out the largest ship and attacked with bombs from mast height. He scored one hit and probably two on the forward part of the ship between the bridge and foremast."

WRECKAGE IN AIR

"Debris was flung into the air by the explosion and a column of smoke and steam followed it."

"The Hudson then swept the length of the convoy in bright moonlight through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire. The rear gunner of the aircraft sprayed each ship in turn with machine gun bullets and all German gun crews ceased fire as presumably their crews ducked for cover."

R.A.F. activity late Tuesday was against fuel tanks on the Cherbourg peninsula, a number of them being set ablaze. An earlier daylight sweep had included attacks on a Nazi air drome, freight trains, troop detachments and gun positions in northern France.

ADMITTED BY GERMANS

BERLIN (AP)—R.A.F. bombers dropped incendiary and high explosive bombs on points in western and northwestern Germany Tuesday night, damaging buildings and causing a few casualties, it was disclosed today. The damage was not important and nonmilitary, it was claimed.
